SURPRISE AT TAGUE-FITZ HEARING

6 MILLION SIGN FOR HEROES' BONUS

Demand Grows That Plan of Hearst Papers for Extra Pay Be Adopted

The American soldier boys in France and along the Rhine are sending in signatures to the Boston American and allied Hearst papers' six-months' pay petition at the rate of 20,000 a week.

One of the first things a returning hero does on arriving at home is to call his home folks to cut the petition blank from a Hearst paper and send it in.

This gigantic petition now contains 6,000,000 signatures of American citizens who endorse the suggestion made by William Randolph Hearst that every honorably discharged soldier, sailor and marine be awarded a gratuity of six months' pay. Thirty United States Senators have endorsed it, twenty State legislatures, over 100 Congressmen, the American Federation of Labor, practically every labor organization in the country. Also thousands of patriotic, fraternal, religious, civic and social bodies.

Former Senator Vardaman of Mississippi introduced a bill at the last session, modeled along the lines suggested by Mr. Hearst. Congressman Baer, North Dakota, introduced a bill in the lower house calling for a year's pay. Representative Baer has since heartily endorsed the Hearst plan and in all probability he will remodel his bill to conform with that of former Senator Vardaman. Action on the bills at the next session of Congress is promised.

In Greater New York the Republican and Democratic organizations are engaged in friendly rivalry to see which can secure the greater number of signatures. At least a million is the goal set by each. One Democratic club in the Bronx, in which women are prominent, has sent in one mile of petition blanks.

At the urgent and voluntary request of convalescent fighters at the various base hospitals in the New York zone, thousands of petition blanks have been printed and distributed among the wounded heroes. They say a bonus of six months' pay will aid them to face the future with lighter hearts.

The petition for six months' pay for service men is on Page 10.

Paris, April 8.—The International News Service is today able to present the exact position of America at the peace conference round table in Paris.

This information is secured through an unmistakable official channel close to President Wilson and reveals in advance the gist of any statement the President may give outlining the attitude of himself and his colleagues on the American delegation. It is this:

"Let the people read the original fourteen points presented by the President in conjunction with the original armistice terms presented to the central powers by the allies. These represent the position of the United States. That position is one that stands for peace based on justice."

'L' ZONE SYSTEM PLAN OPPOSED BY HAYS

Same Idea Would Apply to Gas and Electric Service, Says Representative

Representative Martin Hays of Brighton spoke in opposition to a zone system on the Elevated today, before the Committee on Street Railways. He urged support of his bill to prohibit the Elevated trustees from putting such a system into effect.

He declared that if a zone system were adopted, there was no reason why gas and electric light service should not be supplied on a similar basis, consumers of outlying districts paying more than those near the source of supply. He declared further that a zone system would mean more congestion in city districts, to which people would move to save fares.

Others who appeared in opposition to the system were Representatives Phinney of Hyde Park, Beardsley of Roxbury and Lane of Boston. G. A. A. Pevey, former city solicitor of Cambridge, favored the plan, suggesting a system which provided for a 5-cent fare within a four-mile radius of the centre of the city, also for short hauls in outlying districts.

NEWTON WOMAN KILLS FATHER

PARADE TO START AT 1 P. M.

Hour Changed by Army Officers; Rest of Y. D. Boys Now at Sea Bound for Home

Plans for the reception of members of the Yankee Division, who are due to dock along Commonwealth pier, South Boston, Thursday morning, call for early rising on the part of those who would go down the harbor to shout welcome to the returning heroes. Unless the plans are changed the first of the welcoming boats will leave their wharves at 5:30 sharp.

These tentative arrangements were being arranged at about the same time army officers were setting the hour for the start of the parade of the troops on April 25. The army has now decreed that the parade will get under way promptly at 1 o'clock instead of at 11 o'clock as previously announced. Colonel Albert S. Williams, chief of staff of the Northeastern Department, made this announcement today.

And at about the same time word was flashed overseas that the rest of the division was on its way home. The Winnifredian, Patricia and New Jersey are bringing the remaining units from Brest, and if they run true to schedule, should arrive in Boston about one week from tomorrow. The first and second ships named are transports and the New Jersey a cruiser.

WILL GREET SHERBURNE.

It was announced today that the members of the Legislature who are going down to welcome home their former member, Brigadier-General John H. Sherburne, who is on the Mongolia, will leave on the U. S. S Rogday, a former Russian ice-breaker. This ship was loaned by the Navy Department. Governor R. Livingstone Beeckman of Rhode Island will head a delegation from his State aboard the U. S. S. Admiral. On his staff will be every returned Y. D officer in Little Rhody.

In addition Providence will send a delegation of 400 men who will leave that city at 5 o'clock in the morning on a special train. They will arrive in Boston at 8 o'clock and, headed by their band, will march to Eastern avenue, where they will board the ferry John H. Sullivan for the trip down the harbor.

Word was received from Brest indicating that all the trains save five companies are aboard the Winnifredian. The Patricia has 323 officers and 2,455 men. The New Jersey carries the balance of the trains and the casuals of the 103d artillery regiment.

MANY BATTERIES ON MONGOLIA.

The Mongolia has on board the 51st Artillery Brigade, including Brigadier-General John H. Sherburne, the 101st Field Artillery, the 2nd Battalion headquarters and detachment of the headquarters company, supply company, Batteries C to F inclusive and Medical Detachment, the 102nd Field Artillery and the 103rd Field Artillery.

A total of 171 officers, 4,358 troops, one Y. M. C. A. secretary are also aboard.

General Edwards today sent the following radiogram to Brigadier-General Sherburne:

"All New England joins me in cordially welcoming home your stout-hearted lads.

(Signed) "EDWARDS."

How Mayor Peters, seeking Martin M. "And poor Andrew got his clothes all dirty," said Donovan by way of detail.

Charter Guards, G. G. A.'s, machine politicians of both parties and hundreds of interested citizens turned out to witness the clash on the new charter, Big City Council bill, before the legislative Committee on Metropolitan Affairs.

HISTORY of the YANKEE DIVISION

by HARRY A. BENWELL

YANKEES DEFEATED CRACK TROOPS

This is the tenth instalment of the "History of the Yankee Division" which began in the Sunday Advertiser-American on March 30. Major-General Edwards paid a tribute to the division in the first instalment. The story of the remarkably quick organization and debarkation of the division followed. It was the first complete division to land in France from the United States. Then came the story of the sufferings endured in the training area and General Edwards' taking his entire division into the front line trenches a as unit. There is a thrill in the experiences of the division in the first skirmishes of the Yankees with the Germans in "No Man's Land." The first big battle of the 26th was at Apremont, which was told of in the last instalment published in yesterday's American.

CHAPTER VIII.—Continued.

The 102d Infantry bore the brunt of this engagement, and acquitted themselves in a way that brought more compliments from the French. About thirty or forty general American prisoners, with the 102d Infantry at this time, were working in this vicinity. When the fight began the prisoners grabbed rifles from wounded and dead comrades, jumped into the midst of the fray and each and every one proved himself to be a hero.

The bombardment which began on Saturday morning was the most terrific the Americans had yet experienced. High explosives mixed with gas were sprayed all up and down the line. The Boche was following the barrage closely at right angles, and a great many Germans got through the loosely-held front line, which was nothing but an irregular string of strong points.

The Germans intended to hold this line with their storm troops until reinforcements could come up and organize it. The Germans shelled the roads leading to the front line, in an attempt to prevent the Yankee reserves from coming up, but they came up.

In the midst of a deadly storm of shells, they fought with the rifle, bayonets, grenades, pistols and even their fists. Although heavily outnumbered, the New Englanders fought on and on. Hand to hand combats took place in the streets of a little town just behind the lines.

Then the Boche retreated, carrying his own wounded and also taking some prisoners. In retreating the Boche came upon isolated platoons of Yankees, and swept some of them along with them. Captain Griswold was with one of these, but he managed to escape when a shell dropped near his captors.

In the meantime the American artillery was pouring a devastating fire on the first line trench, now held by the enemy.

During the engagement, the engineers in this sector fought abreast of the infantry. The Second Battalion of Infantry, which had just been relieved before the fight began, returned to the front and "stood to." Many small units which were not relieved, stayed in their positions until the end.

The moral effect of Seicheprey on the allies was very great, in that it showed the Yankees in their first serious engagement had been able to stand up, take punishment and hold ground against especially trained shock troops.

On April 28 the 104th Infantry was decorated with the Croix de Guerre for its work in the battle of Apremont. There were also 116 individual decorations given out that day to officers and men of the regiment.

The ceremony took place in a large field, the battalion marching from the billets where they were being held in reserve, having left the front fine for rest. General Edwards and his chief of staff were present, as was Brigadier-General Cole, commanding the brigade.

General Passaga, in his gray-blue uniform, arrived in a big automobile and was greeted by the American officers. With his aide, General Passaga advanced to the colors of the 104th, followed by General Edwards, and pinned the Croix de Guerre to them. He said: "I am proud to decorate the flag of a regiment which has shown such fortitude and courage. I am proud to decorate the flag of a nation which has come to aid in the fight for liberty."

He then decorated Colonel Shelton and the remainder of the officers and men who had been cited. Among these were Father Des Saulles, the Knights of Columbus chaplain, and the Rev. Walter Danker of Worcester, the Protestant chaplain, who was later killed.

The order which resulted in these decorations was issued by General Passaga and read as follows:

H. Q., April 26, 1918.
32nd Army Corps.
Staff G—I.

GENERAL ORDER NO. 737—A.

General Passaga, in command of the 32nd Army Corps, mentions in the army corps dispatches:

One Hundred and Fourth Infantry Regiment, U. S. A., under command of Colonel G. H. Shelton:

"For greatest fighting spirit and self-sacrifice during action of April 10, 12 and 13, 1918. Suffering from very heavy bombardments and attacked by very strong German forces, succeeded in preventing their dangerous advance and with greatest energy reconquered at the point of the bayonet the few ruined trenches which had to be abandoned at the first onset, at the same time making prisoners."

GENERAL PASSAGA,
Commanding 32nd Army Corps.

A few days previously the following was issued:

Headquarters 26th Division,
France, April 15, 1918.

General Orders No. 29.

1—The following General Order, issued by the general commanding the 32d Army Corps, French, is published for the information of this command:

8th Army, 32d Army Corps Staff, 3rd Bureau. No. 1,870-3.

General Order No. 124.
Headquarters, April 14, 1918.

On April 12, just past, the enemy, supported by powerful artillery, made an attack in force on the lines held by the left of the 26th America Division and the right of the 10th Colonial Division.

The struggle continued throughout the day and the night of April 12-13.

In the course of the engagement, thanks to the vigorous and repeated counter-attacks of the Americans and of our Colonials, the enemy, in spite of his superiority in numbers, was thrown back from several trench positions where he had gained a foothold, and left in our hands more than forty prisoners and a large number of dead.

During this fight, carried on under a severe bombardment, the American troops gave proof not only of their splendid courage, which we know, but also of a brotherhood in arms which was absolute and ever present.

With such men as these, the cause of liberty is sure to triumph.

Headquarters, April 14, 1918.
General Passaga, Commanding the 32d Coast Artillery.
(Signed) PASSAGA.

2—The division may well be proud of such praises from one so well qualified to speak of merit on the battlefield. I congratulate the entire command and desire especially to mention the gallant conduct of the 3rd Battalion, 104th Infantry, and C Company, 103d Machine Gun Battalion, who bore the brunt of the fight, as well as Batteries D, E and F, 101st Field Artillery, three platoons of 90 m-m guns, manned by men of the 101st Field Artillery, and the 101st Trench Mortar Battery, whose able support of the infantry and machine guns made victory possible.

C. R. EDWARDS,
Major-General, Commanding.

CHAPTER IX.
How They "Kept the Faith"

The exercises connected with the awarding of decorations were an ordeal to many of the men concerned. It is related how when General Passaga was pinning the Croix de Guerre on members of the 104th Regiment, [illegible]y, whose bravery had been of a superhuman order, turned [illegible] and fainted. French officers stated that this was common, and that it was generally the most indomitable fighter who was most affected.

It was during this time, when one of the regiments was in billets, that its colonel made an address to the men which for frankness and straight from the shoulder expressions of opinion had never been equalled in the division.

He prefaced his remarks by recalling a talk he had given the outfit before starting for the front.

"I asked you then," said the colonel, "to have faith in me. I ask you now whether what I told you then was true, and whether I have helped to redeem the promise I made you.

"I told you three months ago that we were going to the front. We did, and we gave a good account of ourselves. Then we were sent to another front; we have here given an even better account of ourselves, and for this you are largely to be thanked.

"I warn you that the end is not here; after our rest we shall be back in the line somewhere. Wherever we are, I count on you for the same loyal service you have given, the same grit, the same determination to meet the Boche and to do him.

Preaches a Little "Hate"

"Don't let anyone get the idea that we have done our full part, for we may be called on soon to do more.

"We are now in a rest period. But I have some bad news for you; while resting we shall probably be requested to amuse ourselves by puttin gup barbed wire.

"I asked you to exercise self-control in that other talk and you did. Courts-martial were wiped out. There has been a little reaction, and I am appealing to you once more on this score.

"After all, it is up to you to keep your comrades from going A. W. O. L. I don't want a yellow man in the regiment and when there is one I want you to help me get rid of him. And the next time we go in—and it may be soon—I want you to see that every man of your own squad is on his job.

"Now, in spite of the presence of the chaplain, I'm going to preach a little hate. You know now what war is, and you have seen the men, face to face, who produced this war. In your hearts you know the Boche is yellow. You have shown that, man for man, you are the better. And you can beat him at his own nasty game, if he is bound to fight that way.

"You have seen your fellows hit and you have taken prisoners—four to one I believe. But that's not enough.

"The Boche is a bully and he is always yellow. He can fight, and he will go on fighting beyond where we can win. He will try every nasty trick to kill you and to make you suffer. Don't forget that. When you meet him remember what he has done. I shan't be satisfied with even forty to one, and I don't want you to be. Get every one you can. Go in cool of head, but with hatred in your hearts and venom in in your bayonets. Every Boche killed brings the end of the war nearer."

Major McCarthy Impatient

The next engagement was in the rear of Fleury on May 20th, the division having taken over two more kilometres of line on the right to relieve the French division. The Boche heard of it and attacked. Major McCarthy's battalion of the 101st defended the salient.

The attack was a failure. As the enemy came over, he was met with a smashing rifle and machine gun fire which took the heart out of him and forced him to retreat. During the engagement, Major McCarthy sent back word to divisional headquarters at Boucq: "We're ready for them, but they are not coming over fastenough."

Probably the most interesting event during the 26th's occupancy of this sector was the early morning when a battalion of gas engineers put on a projector gas attack on the unsuspecting Boche in the vicinity of Fleury. Very little gas had been used by the Yankees up to this time.

Major Watson, commanding the gas battalion, was greatly pleased with the encouragement received from General Edwards and made finished preparation for this attack. The projectors were placed under ideal conditions and the atmospheric conditions were most favorable. It was learned from prisoners late that night that a regimental relief was going on when the projector gas was put over, and they estimated that 2,500 Boches were evacuated.

It is known as a fact that within an hour following the attack the Boche was desperate. He turned loose all the artillery he had and peppered the entire sector without any regard for where he was shooting. All the towns in the back area, including Boucq, were subjected to bombardment by long range guns.

The next event of importance on this sector was the raid of Major Hickey's battalion of the 101st Infantry at Reichecourt. Four or five days before the raid, about May 25 or 26, the battalion was withdrawn from the line and was taken to the rear. Here a place had been chosen as nearly like the terrain of the German lines as possible. Aerial photographs furnished the necessary information from which trenches like the Germans were laid out. There were also dugouts, and machine gun emplacements. The men of the battalion were then sent into these imitation trenches and for several days they practiced taking them.

On the night of May 30, the divisional artillery laid down a barrage and gassed the German second and third lines and communication trenches. Then the battalion went over. They found a few Boches left in the trenches and these they killed or captured. The remainder had been destroyed by the artillery. This was the first big all-American raid.

During these engagements the majority of the orders were transmitted by telephone. There was constant telephonic communication btwean divisional headquarters and brigade and regimental commands.

On the morning of Sunday, June 16, about 8:30, a German plane came over and dropped bombs on Boucq, where divisional headquarters were located, and Roy-au-Meix and Juy-sous-les-Cotes, the towns in which the headquarters of the two brigades were functioning. These bombs were undoubtedly dropped so that the Boche artillery could get the range.

The division suffered quite a few casualties, due to the erratic five. Also as there were no dugouts at Boucq it became necessary to mov divisional headquarters to Trondes, where the staff could function.

One shell landed in the midst of a crowd of men who had just come from church at Roy-au-Meix. Several casualties resulted, one of those killed being Chaplain Danker. General Shelton's orderly was another. He seemed to know by intuition where the shell was going to burst and threw himself between his commanding officer and the deadly projectile. The orderly was killed, but Shelton received only a wound in the cheek, while his uniform, a new one that he had put on to wear to church, was torn in several places by splinters.

GRAND ARMY MEN WOULD SHARE MEMORIAL DAY WITH 1918 HEROES

VETERANS INVITE YOUTHS

Fifty-Third Annual Encampment of Massachusetts Department in Faneuil Hall

Grand Army veterans of Massachusetts wish to share their Memorial Day with the younger veterans of the World War.

Joint observance of the day was proposed at the 53rd annual encampment of Massachusetts Department, G. A. R., in Faneuil Hall today.

Department Commander Edwin P. Stanley said to the encampment:

"Once more, with solemn tread, we visit the bivouac of the dead and strew with flowers the green graves of our departed comrades.

"Let us also bring floral tributes and offerings for those who, having given their lives for a world democracy, sleep today in foreign soil, and likewise the boys who have returned to take part with us in our observance of Memorial Day."

Expressions of approval were heard. When Joshua S. Gray of Rockland, department patriotic instructor, spoke on the significance of Memorial Day he included in his remarks these words:

"As we gather on this coming Memorial Day to decorate the graves of our departed comrades with those little flags which, during the last fifty years, have been so significant in their meaning how much more will they mean to the present generation as they unite with us in paying tribute to their own dead, joining in the exercises with a new understanding of what Memorial Day has always meant to the Old Guard.

"It is often said republics are ungrateful, but never has the Grand Army of the Republic been more appreciated than since the declaration of war with Germany. On all patriotic occasions it has been given the place of honor."

Philip A. Nordell of Boston, assistant adjutant-general, reported 695 members lost by death out of a muster roll of 6,597, and 296 lost through other causes. Three posts have been lost by charter surrender. They are Otis Chapman Post 103 of Chelsea, George C. Strong Post 466 of Easthampton and Mountain Miller Post 178 of Plainfield.

Department Chaplain Seth H. Hall of Brockton has resigned on account of failing health and eyesight.

"Poor Man's Club" to Remain--Minus Liquors

The poor man's "club."

July 1 means its abolition and its resurrection.

Saloons, where liquors are now dispensed, will continue to be places of gathering for those who seek its atmosphere—minus the liquors.

The Methodist Centenary plans to spend nearly $100,000,000 to purchase saloons and establish "poor men's clubs." The only change will be the serving of soft drinks and coffee instead of liquor.

Community houses are also to be provided.

COOLIDGE URGES PEACE MOVE BY MILL MEN

Asks Lawrence Employers to Accept Endicott as Arbiter

Governor Coolidge has urged the manufacturers of Lawrence to emulate the actions of their striking employes and ask Henry H. Endicott to arbitrate labor difficulties there. The Governor made the request in the form of a statement issued following the receipt of a copy of a statement issued by A. J. Moore saying the striker's were glad to have Mr. Endicott arbitrate for them and would accep all his terms.

Included in the Endicot terms for arbitration are three provisions of vital importance. The first is that the strikers must return to work providing there is work for them; the second calls on the employers to take them back. The third, and most important, pledges both strikers and employers also to accept the decision and abide by it for a year following the date of its being handed down.

Governor Coolidge's statement:

"Understanding that those who were formerly employed in some of the industries of Lawrence have signified their willingness to accept the terms laid down by Mr. Henry H. Endicott upon which he would undertake to adjust differences existing between those so formerly employed and their employes, I am urgeding the employers also to accept the same terms which I assume they will wish to do.

"It seems to me that these terms are entirely fair and that the information which I have, ought to be acceptable to everybody. While there may be some who rejoice in strife of this kind, the great majority of the people in the industries at Lawrence are honest, peace loving people, and on account of the conditions there now they are suffering a good deal of hardship. They are law abiding citizens and entitled to the cooperation of the authorities."

"The city of Lawrence is under a great deal of expense in its desire to preserve order and protect the rights of the inhabitants. There are business enough laid upon our citizens by reason of the war without adding to them the further burdens of industrial disputes."

BONNIE GLASS' RICH HUSBAND SUED AGAIN

Ben Ali Haggin, Celebrated Millionaire Artist, Alleged to Owe for Clothes

Bonnie Glass, the pretty Roxbury girl who stirred the hearts of Harvard's Gold Coasters a few years ago, who took for her second husband Ben Ali Haggin, the New York artist, is brought into the limelight once more by the filing of involuntary petitions in bankruptcy of three creditors, in New York, courts. This is the third time within a year that the courts have been asked to hasten the payment of alleged debts of her millionaire husband.

Ben Ali Haggin is considered one of the world's great artists, and his inheritance of an estate of more than $20,000,000 from his father, James B. Haggin, was supposed to have put him in a class above the demands of petty creditors. The claims of the three creditors only aggregate $2,728.24. Of this amount $2,947.24 is for wearing apparel, $2,146 for antique beads and jewelry and $193 is a million picture concern.

HIS SECOND MARRIAGE.

Ben Ali Haggin was separated from his first wife, Margaret Faith Robinson, of New York, in 1914, and following that period spent some time in a sanitarium at Greenwich, Conn. Two years later he married Bonnie Glass, a dancer, and the married life of the couple has been blissfully happy, according to the reports of their friends.

Bonnie Glass was Helen Roche of Roxbury, when her winsome face and dainty airs first captivated the gilded youth of the Harvard Coast. Wealthy young Graham Glass Jr., of Portland, Ore., carried off the coveted prize, only to lose it by way of the divorce court just a little while later, but though young Graham Glass was completely captivated by the beauty and grace of his young bride, Papa Glass was not touched, save in his pocketbook. He immediately cut the allowance of the son from $500 a month to $450 a year.

IN DIVORCE COURT.

When poverty perched upon the doorstep, Bonnie, as she was now, flew out of the window. Helen Roche Haggin, now plaintiff, and the young Harvard husband had their matrimonial knot severed in the divorce courts and that was the end of it.

The career of the young beauty was a sky rocket effect after that and read like a chapter from a romance novel. Following her divorce, she went to New York and as a dancer, was a familiar Broadway figure. Here she captivated the heart and the millions of Ben Ali Haggin, and the two were married.

Ben Ali Haggin's fame has arisen chiefly from his portrait paintings. Among his best known are his portraits of Mary Garden as Thais and of Maxine Elliot.

PROMISE TO KEEP MEN AT NAVY YARD BUSY

In answer to a request from H. B. Endicott and James J. Fuller that he has joined with his efforts to that end and has also received the following letter from Richard Olney:

"I have had assurances from the Acting Secretary of the Navy that in spite of the lack of funds for repairs of vessels some additional work will be assigned the Boston Navy Yard owing now arriving with troops from overseas will make all necessary repairs. Also that vessels allocated German vessels will be fitted as transports there, and soon the U. S. S. Kearsarge, Kentucky and New Jersey will be sent the yard for necessary repairs."

REVEAL $65,923 DIVIDENDS IN FISH STOCK

Books Produced at Trial Give One Firm's Business During 30-Month Period

F. Munroe Dyer's receipts in dividends from the Bay State Fishing Company, from the time it was formed, June 1, 1916, until December, 1918, were $65,923.50, according to books produced today in the trial of thirty defendants in the so-called fish trust case in Superior Court before Judge Sanderson.

Arthur L. Pride, expert accountant from the office of the attorney general, testified regarding the books that he had received from E. A. James, treasurer of the Bay State Fishing Company of Maine.

The books consisted of a journal and a cash book, but no ledger. The books, in addition to showing that dividends of $65,923.50 had been received by Dyer, Mrs. Dyer's name showed that the number of common stockholders was 437, first preferred stockholders 283, and second preferred 150, making a total number of stockholders 868.

The total number of shares of first preferred stock was 12,497, valued at $12,439,700; second preferred, 9,564 shares valued at $4,986,400. Nine trawlers of the company were insured for $15,983 and their total valuation was $585,000.

The witness was asked if he saw any cash accounts for the stock for the firm of F. Munroe Dyer and said that on April 23, 1917, he saw 3,000 shares of second preferred stock at $94,000; on the same day 600 shares at $56,400, also 496 shares of second preferred stock valued at $45,818.

ASSAILANT OF GIRL IS STILL AT LARGE

Lawrence, April 8.—Victor Demars, who is wanted for an alleged attack on Eva Trahan, from which she is recovering at the Lawrence General Hospital, did not commit suicide as first supposed, but is still at large, in the opinion of the police.

It became known today that before the attack he withdrew money from a local bank and bought new clothes. It is believed that the crime was premeditated and that the assailant made good his escape.

The attack took place last Thursday night while Miss Trahan was asleep. She was beaten and stabbed, and was not at first expected to live. Hospital authorities reported that she is now resting comfortably.

WOMAN GOES SHOPPING AND VANISHES

Police Send Out General Alarm and Boston American Is Asked to Aid in Search

One of the strangest mysteries the police of this city have been called upon to solve is the disappearance from the shopping district of Boston on Saturday of Mrs. Mary Mavromatis, fifty, of No. 168 Eliot street, her two sons, Nicholas and Paul, have asked the Boston American to help find their mother.

A general alarm sent out by the police and inquiries made at all hospitals failed to gain word of his mother, Nicholas Mavromatis told the American.

"Mother left home Saturday at 2 p. m. to go shopping in the downtown district," said Nicholas. "She told me she would be back at 6 o'clock, as was her custom, but she did not return.

POLICE NOTIFIED.

"I waited until midnight and then, fearing that she had met with an accident or foul play, notified the police. Since then we have made tireless search, but without result. She did not go to visit relatives or friends, because I have communicated with everybody she might have visited.

"Mother was in the best of health when she left home. She wore a long, black, broadcloth coat, black furs, black felt hat, dark shirt, white waist. She wore glasses and carried a black leather handbag in which there was between five and seven dollars in cash. Around her neck was a locket containing photographs of my brother Paul and of herself. She was four feet ten inches tall and weighed 150 pounds.

MAY HAVE BEEN ROBBED.

"I believe now that she must have left the shopping district and been set upon in some quiet street by robbers, who perhaps knocked her unconscious, rifled her bag and then threw her body into a cellar, where it still must be."

Mrs. Mavromatis was born in Athens, Greece, where her husband died eighteen years ago. In 1910 she came to this country and remained in Manchester, N. H., until 1914, when she sent for her sons. They have since lived in Boston.

Mrs. Mavromatis had suffered from nervousness some time ago, according to her sons, but had entirely recovered.

WATERTOWN WOMAN JUMPS FROM WINDOW

Crosley sent a hurry call to the Watertown police, but by the time they had responded the woman had escaped. She was found several hours later in Brighton, and was detained for observation.

U. S. RAILROADS MISMANAGED, SAYS GILLETT

"Outrage That Congress Is Not in Session to Act," Declares New Speaker

New York, April 8.—It is an outrage that Congress is not now in session to act on the "government's gross mismanagement of the railroad situation," according to Representative F. H. Gillett of Springfield, Mass., new Speaker of the House.

"I do not undertake to speak for the Republican party or for Mr. Fordney or Mr. Mondell, or other leaders who will have important duties in the new house," said Mr. Gillett, who is here today. "Speaking as the representative of one New England district, I am free to say that I consider it an outrage that Congress is not now in session, giving its best thought to the chaos in railroad situation. The shipping situation is perhaps equally important.

"I notice that the Interstate Commerce Commission reports that net income from the railroads decreased 14 per cent. for February, as compared with the same month last year. The rates are up 25 per cent. and the service seems to be poorer than ever. According to the figures published the deficit of the first two months of the calendar year is $74,000,000, while the estimated deficit for the fiscal year is $1,000,000.

"I also note that on these figures the average family is paying $74 a year for the luxury of government operation.

"As I said three weeks ago, as soon as Congress is called together we should provide for the return, as soon as possible, of the railroads and the telegraph and telephone systems to their private owners under a modified method of public control. In order that the public convenience may be subserved, that these utilities may be placed upon a business basis, that creative power is protected and initiative retained.

"It would be presuming for me to say just what legislation shall or shall not be enacted. If I have the honor to be elected it will be expected to counsel and suggest sane and progressive action according to the traditions of the party which gave to the nation Lincoln, McKinley and Roosevelt. Personally I am in favor of a protective tariff measure which, while it will not discriminate against foreign goods produced by cheap labor, will give the President and his party should he placed in the entire responsibility for the elimination of the unfair competition and men and women in great numbers need employment."

YOUNG COLORED MAN OPPOSES WIFE IN SUIT

Mrs. George Mott, Sued for $50,000 for "Alienation," Defended by Her Chauffeur

New York, April 8.—Albert King, a colored chauffeur from South Carolina, opened his long arms to a Supreme Court jury yesterday after the fashion of a Fourth of July orator, and said:

"I gave my wife a slap—a pretty hard slap. And that's the same Julia King who wants Mrs. Mott to give her $50,000."

King is the star witness for Mrs. Augusta L. Mott. She is sixty-four years of age, wife of a well-to-do lawyer, and is the defendant in an action for alienation of King's affections. He was her colored motor-car driver, and lived over the garage at the Far Rockaway estate of George E. Mott and his wife.

The plaintiff is Julia King, a tall, angular, colored woman, mother of four children. Both King and his wife are about thirty years old.

The slap King admits he gave his wife is important, because Mrs. Mott's lawyers say it is indicative of his scant love for her, had nothing to do with alienating his affections.

He declared he had no affections to alienate, because his wife had forfeited his love by ill-treating him.

He said:

"After I had lived with Julia for some time after our marriage and Julia said Far Rockaway was a God-forsaken place and wanted me to move. We came and there was nothing for me to eat. So I gave her a slap.

"She told me if I didn't marry her she'd tell the Motts. After I did marry her, she said to me, 'You're a man. I got you in black and white. I got you where I want you.'"

Mr. Mott, the thirty-year-husband of the defendant, sat by her side or consulted with Grand C. Fess, her counsel in the defence of the case. It is the theory of the defence that Mrs. Mott, who was called Mother King for his faithful service to her and her husband, suggested herself occasionally in words that have been twisted out of the true significance to bolster the charge of alienation. Mr. Mott admitted frankly that Mrs. Mott wrote to Mrs. Julia King, where she and her husband went for their health, to King, in charge of their Far Rockaway place, in which she said:

"My heart is with you every minute of the time. I must tell you that I am sad and very lonely."

This note was signed "R. D." Attorney Fox said the initials stood for "Baby Doll," a nickname for Mrs. Mott, adopted by her servants ever since her husband gave a dinner party at which baby doll souvenirs were distributed. The servants remarked that these baby dolls resembled her.

Mrs. Stackpole also planned leave of absence to go overseas, and his wife has only just received word of his promotion. Captain Stackpole was with the 26th Division until near the end of the war, when he was assigned as supervising chaplain at Marseilles.

SAYS BOY SLEW FOR LOVE OF WOMAN

District-Attorney Declares He Has Confession of Lincoln McKinley Grant

Pittsfield, April 8.—The skull of Miles Hewitt, Hancock road farmer who was murdered February 26, 1917, also the bloody axe with which he was killed, and some of his clothing, which he wore at the time, made ghastly exhibits today in the trial of Lincoln McKinley Grant, nineteen, charged with the murder. The trial is being held in the Superior Court here before Judge Marcus Morton of Newton.

Hewitt's body was found buried in a pile of refuse in the cellar of his barn, almost two months after the murder. Although the clothing displayed in court had been boiled four times, the odor was so pronounced that it was removed from the court room after examination by the jury.

District Attorney Joseph B. Ely in his address to the jury declared that Grant first stole the love of Hewitt's wife, then murdered Hewitt with an axe, buried his body, took his money and farm, told Mrs. Hewitt that her husband had run away to Canada with another woman, and subsequently confessed to the police.

Attorney Ely declared that he would produce the alleged confession.

Gruesome details of the condition of the body formed an important feature of the district-attorney's story. He described Hewitt as a "peaceful, law-abiding citizen," devoted to his wife and children, who worked on his farm, peddled dairy products, and worked nights as an engineer for a lime company. Grant was a helper about the place and lived at the Hewitt home. He was arrested following discovery of the body.

According to Attorney Ely, Grant told the police that he had struck Hewitt from behind with an axe as the latter was milking a cow, that he dragged the body to the cellar and buried it; that he did this for love of Mrs. Hewitt and that she loved him in return.

Mrs. Hewitt was arrested as an accessory before the fact, and is now on bail. She is living at Springfield with a married sister.

Witnesses today included Medical Examiner Henry Colt and Undertaker Walter Fairbanks of Pittsfield, who told the condition of the body; Charles Hewitt, a brother of the victim, who explained scars on the hand by which he had identified the body, and Frank Nourse of Philadelphia, a friend whose wife is Mrs. Hewitt's sister.

Attorney J. Moses Brown, counsel for the defence declined to cross-examine Nourse, announcing that he should call the witness later for the defence.

A Canadian army officer, William Pemberton, of the famous Princess Pat Regiment, told of the extraordinary wear he got out of army boots twice repaired with Neolin Soles.

'BELLE OF THIRD AVENUE' SEEKS SEPARATION

Thorne, sometimes called "the Belle of Third avenue," has sued for a separation in the Supreme Court. She charges Joel Wolfe Thorne, who inherited a large sum of money from his father, with having treated her cruelly and with having abandoned her.

Mrs. Thorne swore to the complaint in her separation action last September. Her attorney has held the papers ever since in an effort to make personal service on the defendant. As Thorne could not be located, his wife obtained permission from the court to serve her husband by publication and mailing the summons to the home of his mother, Phoebe Thorne, at No. 314 Fifth avenue.

In her complaint Mrs. Thorne alleges that her husband abandoned her in October, 1917, and that shortly he had her committed to Bellevue Hospital on the charge that she was deranged. She obtained her release on habeas corpus proceedings. Later, she says, a lawyer returned to her a $26,000 necklace which her husband had taken from her. The necklace was returned, she says, after she had started an action to replevin it.

Her chief allegation against her husband is that he "kidnaped" their four-year-old son, Joel, last August. Since that time she has been unable to learn where either her son or his father is located. About a week ago she thought she saw little Joel in the window of his grandmother's house on Fifth avenue.

She sued out a writ of habeas corpus in the Supreme Court for the boy's production, but his grandmother said he was not in the house.

Mrs. Thorne declares that she has addressed many letters to her husband since his disappearance. They have not come back to her, but he has not replied. She alleges he is in receipt of a large income from a trust fund of more than $1,000,000.

ANSELL ASKED TO DRAFT WAR COURT REFORM BILL

Washington, April 8.—Lieutenant-Colonel Samuel T. Ansell, whose criticism of the courts martial system precipitated a lively clash in the War Department, has been invited by Secretary Baker to draft a bill which, in his opinion, would bring about the needed reforms. The invitation was extended through Adjutant-General Harris.

JUDGE MUST PAY FINE FOR CONTEMPT OF COURT

Denver, Colo., April 8.—Ben B. Lindsey, judge of the Denver Juvenile Court, must pay a fine of $500 for contempt of the district court of Denver county or go to jail. This is the decision of the Supreme Court of Colorado. The contempt case against Judge Lindsey arose in May, 1918.

SHOTS ARE FIRED AT PICKETERS IN LAWRENCE

Lawrence, April 8.—John F. Murphy fired two shots at two Italian picketers who were intimidating his mother and sister while they were on their way to work here today. Murphy, who has a permit to carry a revolver, says he feared an attack by the pickets and, after, because stones were thrown through window in his house last night, followed them as they walked toward the mill in which they are employed, and when the picketers began intimidating them he fired twice. The men fled. The shooting occurred at the corner of White and Chestnut streets in the Plains district.

A reign of terror exists in certain sections of Lawrence today, following reported threats to blow up houses where mill workers are living if they do not stop work. Police details last night guarded houses at 52 Union street and No. 18 Newbury street. The landlord of the Chestnut street house where Antonio Ursulla, a Wood mill worker boards, has been warned to have him vacate or, it is said, the house will be blown up.

Stones were thrown through the windows of houses on Bennington and Chestnut streets last night, where mill workers board. John Clark, who keeps a boarding house at the corner of Common and Union streets, has asked for a special guard of police, following an alleged threat to blow up his premises.

Far from nearing an end, it is believed that strike sentiment in Lawrence is stronger than ever today.

GERMANS PLANNING TO SOCIALIZE INDUSTRIES

Berlin, April 8.—The cabinet has accepted a constitutional proposal, placing workers and employers on an equal basis in determining wages, working conditions and productive development. The proposal provides for the creation of a National economic council with district councils to work out socialization of industries and other economic problems.

Father Gallagher was a K. of C. chaplain.

BERT FORD'S CAMP DEVENS PAGE

BARRY PLANTS P. O. IN HEART OF BERLIN

By BERT FORD.

Camp Devens, April 8.—Every post-office employe will be interested in the story of Lieutenant-Colonel John J. Barry of the 101st Infantry.

John put one over on the Kaiser and his gang when he established a United States army postoffice in the heart of Berlin.

"I always said I would not be satisfied until I had planted a branch office of the A. E. F. in the stronghold of the enemy and I got my wish just before I was transferred back to the Yankee Division shortly before the first units sailed from France," he said.

MATED TO LEAVE COMMAND.

"I had commanded what was christened the 'Brickbat Battalion' on the Mexican border. It is a gallant band. Because of the fact that I have served so long in Uncle Sam's postal service and had been superintendent of the Upland's Corner postoffice, in Dorchester, when called out with the old Ninth Regiment, I was selected to help organize and operate the overseas post offices of the army.

"I hated to leave my battalion. You get to love them. You look upon them as a big family and you're lost when you are away from them. But orders are orders in the army and I took a fling at the postal work which was a problem.

"I was succeeded as commander of the 'Brickbats' by Major Thomas F. Foley, the popular police inspector from Worcester, formerly captain of Company G, known as the 'Emmet Guards.' Everybody knows that Tom made good. He was calm and fearless and did wonderful work in Chateau Thierry.

"But I am getting away from army postal matters. I put in ten months in that branch of the service and talk about work. It was a task to get things running smoothly, there was such a mass of mail.

"I organized one hundred and ten post offices in France, one in Italy, another in Belgium, a large branch with the Army of Occupation in Coblenz, and last of all and my crowning achievement—a post office in Berlin. After that I was willing and eager to get back with the Yankee Division and was delighted to arrive in time to return with the outfit.

LETTERS POORLY ADDRESSED.

"Dumping two million and a half men in a foreign country and trying to get their mail to and from them was bound to have its problems and handicaps. One of the biggest difficulties was due to carelessness on the part of relatives directing letters and packages. Many need to think we fellows were mind-readers or possessed of superhuman power.

"Out of 400 letters examined as a test, 240 were either addressed in addition to the name simply 'A. E. F.' or just 'Somewhere in France.' One letter bore this address: '42389, via New York, A. E. F.' The number was the army classification of the soldier for whom the letter was intended which involved overhauling army records, when the person who sent it might have used the name instead of the number on the identification tag.

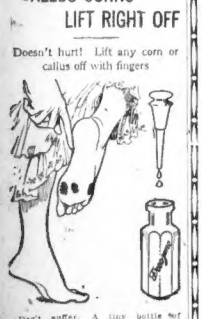
"Other freak addresses were: 'Private John F. Foster, Company J, Pershing's Army, France'; 'Mr. Russell, A. E. F., Indentification No. 2426652'; 'Wayne E. Drake, A. E. F.'; 'Sergeant John Laurens, American Expeditionary Force, France'; 'Private Carmelo Ables, E. F., via New York'; 'Mr. George V. Todd, 3539634, War Department, Somewhere in France'; 'To Bud Bissette, U. S. Soldier, Army Postoffice, New York, Care Postmaster'; 'Private Howard E. Degnan, Company C, U. S. Infantry'; 'Max Koury, soldier, C. Battalion, A. E. F., France'; 'Mr. Stewart Spaulding, Military Mail, Foreign Service, Passed by Censor A. E. F., New York'; 'Mr. Geff Patrick, Mashlehing 1st Lt. Amexa, Soldiers Mail'; 'Mr. Bennie Hill, Colored Regiment, Somewhere in France'; 'Mr. Michael F. Toin, Somewhere in France'; 'Private Timothy Winston, Infantry, France.'

CHRISTMAS RUSH HEAVY.

"If relatives knew what trouble such carelessness caused they would have exercised more caution. There would not have been so much stray mail. The Christmas rush was heavy, but things were working well by that time. You should have seen the flood of toys and dolls that came from American soldiers in Germany."

"CALLUS CORNS" LIFT RIGHT OFF

Doesn't hurt! Lift any corn or callus off with fingers



Don't suffer. A tiny bottle of Freezone costs but a few cents at any drug store. Apply a few drops on the corns, calluses and "hard skin" on bottom of feet, then lift them off.

When Freezone removes corns from the toes or calluses from the bottom of feet the skin beneath is left pink and healthy and never sore, tender or irritated.

Who's Who in the 26th Division

Brigadier-General William Lassiter, who went to France with the 26th Division as commander of the 51st Field Artillery Brigade, is 51 years of age.

He graduated from West Point in 1889 and the artillery school five years later.

Some of the organizations he has been with as an officer are the 4th, 1st, 8th, 5th, 3d and 2d field artillery. He took part in the capture of Santiago during the Spanish War and later had various assignments, including assistant instructor in tactics at West Point from 1898 to 1901; commander of 7th Battery, Field Artillery, Fort Riley, Kansas, 1901-1903; duty in office of inspector-general, U. S. A., 1906-9; duty on general staff, 1911-13 and military attache at the American Embassy, London, in 1916.

He lives in Washington.

Brig.-Gen. William Lassiter.

And the backs helmets sent to America would build a fleet of warships if melted.

"Some came through neatly wrapped in burlap with squares of linen neatly lettered sewn on. Others came through with simply a tag dangling from them or an address pasted on the top.

Everything was ready in camp today for the reception of the units that arrived yesterday on the Agamemnon. The 101st, 103rd and 104th Infantry regiments have gone into permanent quarters. No passes will be granted after April 20, because parade plans will be brisk at that time and a full roster is desired. It is planned to send 4000 of the Yankee Division to Boston in special troop trains on April 24, and the remaining 10,000 early on April 25, the day of the parade. The balance of the division consisting of men living outside of New England will have been mustered out and sent to their homes by that time. It is expected.

Wholesale leaves were granted yesterday. The Yankee Division men were treated to their first Spring thunderstorm. Yesterday's weather reminded us very much of the brand common in France. Arrangements are under way for elaborate sporting features. Boxing and baseball are to be popular pastimes. The "Y" insignia was conspicuous in Boston and on trains bound to and from Ayer yesterday and the village was swarmed with young warriors who were kept busy selling what they had coins and seen.

but has been compelled to sidestep most of them because of duties as commander of a regiment on the eve of being mustered out.

About the Boys Who Are Coming Back

Wearing his Croix de Guerre and the Distinguished Service Cross, Private A. Johnson of No. 98 Dickerman street, Waterbury, Conn., a member of C Company of the 102nd Infantry, was reluctant to tell of his experiences. His comrades, however, came forward with the information. On one occasion, they declared, Johnson was placed in charge of a squad of eleven snipers and proceeded to wipe out two German machine gun nests and returned to his own trenches with eleven prisoners. For this he was decorated with the Croix de Guerre by Major-General Liggett. For a similar action of bravery he was decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross by General Pershing at Mandris.

Private Lewis R. Sullivan, Jr., son of Councillor Lewis R. Sullivan, was another hero aboard the Agamemnon who refused to tell of his own heroism. Sullivan was cited for bravery at Verdun. He is a member of A Company the the 101st Regiment.

Private Thomas B. Kelley of Waterbury, Conn., who with Sergeant Byron of G Company of the 102nd advanced into No-Man's Land and wiped out a German machine gun nest was also aboard the steamer. He wore a Distinguished Service Cross.

"The Germans at Coblenz were like a kicked dog all ready to lick the hands of their conquerors when the American troops went into that city," declared Charles F. Prior, superintendent of schools of Fairhaven, who obtained a year's leave of absence to serve with the Y. M. C. A. in France. He is returning to take charge of the schools of that town once more.

* * *

Just nineteen months to a day since he sailed for France, Captain Sinclair Weeks of Battery O, 101st Field Artillery, the son of ex-Senator John W. Weeks, arrived home with his unit on board the Agamemnon. He went away a first lieutenant. This battery was part of the most efficient American field artillery in the war.

WALTHAM'S WELCOME FOR BOYS BACK FROM FRANCE

The forty Waltham boys who have returned with the 26th and who are at present detained at Camp Devens for the sanitary process were released late this afternoon, and at 5 o'clock the city of Waltham gave them a formal welcome. A special citizen's committee left early in the day for Camp Devens and the forty guests of honor made the trip back to their home town in automobiles. An informal reception was held on the Common.

Y. D. BOYS SWARM INTO DEVENS AMID CHEERS

By THOMAS F. FIELAN.

Camp Devens, Ayer, April 8.—To the accompaniment of loud whistling, ringing of fire bells and enthusiastic cheers from people grouped on the platform, the Yankee Division veterans brought home on the transport Agamemnon arrived here today from Commonwealth Pier. The first troop train reached Camp Devens at 11 o'clock and others followed in rapid succession.

The men were assigned to the rest area, where their clothing will be put through the sanitary process plant, after which they will take up quarters in the Depot Brigade.

Rev. Michael J. O'Connor, who was chaplain of the 101st Infantry when it went across and now is division chaplain, returned to Camp Devens today and was given a warm greeting.

Private William B. Vosburg of Danville, Ark., member of Company K, 26th Infantry, was found guilty of desertion and sentenced to be dishonorably discharged, to forfeit all pay and allowances, and to be confined at hard labor for five years at Fort Jay, N. Y. The reviewing authorities mitigated the sentence by four years, so Vosburg will have one year to serve at hard labor.

New service calls in effect today make first call at 6:15, with march and reveille at 6:20 and assembly at 6:30. First call for retreat is at 5:15 and taps at 10 p. m.

Contracts Awarded for Building Reviewing Stands for $106,594

Final arrangements for seating in reviewing stands more than 70,000 relatives of New England veterans in the Yankee Division were completed today when the executive committee awarded contracts for the erection of the reviewing stands that will cost $106,594.

The committee has abandoned its original plan to erect reviewing stands on Boylston street from the Hotel Lenox to Hereford street, and on Beacon street 700 feet from Charles street on the south side. These locations will be available for the erection of reviewing stands by private organizations, however, if the necessary permits are secured from the city.

Contractors will begin immediately on erection of the stands, it is announced, in order that all work may be completed in time for the parade. It should be understood that families of men in the 26th Division who still are overseas are entitled to seats in the grandstands.

The following contractors' bids were accepted:

Coleman Bros., Chelsea, Section N, $2,344; John A. Costello & Co., of Roxbury, Sections E, F, G, H, $24,850; James E. Nelson, of Boston, Section I, $24,400; Brown & Welch, Boston, Sections A, B, C, D, J, K, $45,000.

THE METROPOLITAN COAL COMPANY view their activities in the light of a public service. Coal is an indispensible essential in the lives of rich and poor alike and in these times of dislocated sources of supply we are determined that this organization shall render public service, unceasing and in fullest measure.

Here Is the Place

Where Coal First Sees the Light of Day

HOW little of the absorbing romance of mining is betrayed by the surface workings of a coal mine! Yet, while the interminable digging away at the bowels of the earth reflects man's indomitable energy, the buildings here pictured are a tribute to man's genius. They make it possible for the Metropolitan Coal Company to bring a million and a half tons of coal to you annually.

Arrow number one indicates the breaker where the coal is sorted into marketable sizes. Number two points to the shaft, as it is called, or the cage where miners descend to go to work and where the coal is brought to the surface. Number three shows the tremendous power-plant that furnishes the energy to run the entire mine.

A mine is laid out very much like a huge hotel. The various levels correspond to the floors, the gangways, on each level, to the hallways, and the side-tunnels where the miner blasts away day after day, to the rooms. Anthracite mines have five or six levels, and fifty to two hundred miles of gangways.

It is interesting to note that in the Anthracite district for each ton of coal mined sixteen tons of water must be pumped out of the mine. It is evident the pumps must be kept in constant operation to prevent flooding of the mine.

So next time you see a Metropolitan truck speeding past—maybe to your home—with coal on the last lap of its journey, ponder a moment on the service being rendered you.

TAGUE'S SISTER ON STAND AT HEARING

on April 1, 1918?" Miss Tague was asked by Callahan.

"No, sir—I didn't, but my mother did," replied the witness.

WRITES TAGUE HOME WEEKLY.

Miss Tague then testified that she knew that Turnbull lived in Somerville with his wife "part of the time," but asserted that he "visited" the Tague home "once a week all Summer long" every year.

The witness stated that Turnbull paid the gas bills at No. 47 Corey street and owned furniture at that address. Pressed for the names of a single tradesman or laundryman who left supplies or laundry for Turnbull at No. 47 Corey street, Charlestown, Miss Tague was unable to cite a single name. Neither was she able to relate an exact date, with the exception of April 1, 1918, when Turnbull spent the night at the Tague residence, occupied by herself and his former Congressman's mother.

Miss Tague further stated in response to questions that her cousin, Turnbull, paid the taxes at No. 47 Corey street, and retained that address as his legal residence notwithstanding his other residence in Somerville.

TO FEEBLE TO BE CALLED.

Letters were read by Attorney Callahan in substantiation of his statement that he had decided not to call Mrs. Mary A. Tague, the ex-congressman's mother, as a witness on account of her advanced age.

Tague's counsel, Joseph F. O'Connell, offered to introduce a death certificate that Mrs. Tague, Sr., was unable to appear and testify at the hearing because of feeble health. Attorney O'Connell waived the reading of the certificate because of his decision not to call Mrs. Tague after subpoenaing her.

A mild sensation occurred in the court room when State Treasurer and Receiver-General Charles L. Burrill, Republican, was called to the stand to testify as to his place of residence and voting address.

Treasurer Burrill stated that he lived at and voted from the Boston City Club, which was his usual place of residence.

"Are you married?" he was asked.

"Yes," he replied.

"Does your wife live with you at the City Club?"

"No, sir," Treasurer Burrill responded. "Mrs. Burrill spends her time traveling in Europe when not engaged in social work in New York. Occasionally she spends the Summer in Massachusetts. Women—with the exception of maids and housekeepers—are not allowed at the City Club."

"That is all," Attorney Callahan concluded.

The hearing was adjourned at 11.36 until Friday morning at 10 o'clock, at which time Assistant Secretary of State Herbert H. Boynton will testify as to the voting of absentee voters and men in the military and naval service of the United States.

TAYLOR LISTED IN EAST BOSTON.

The first witness at today's session was William Taylor of No. 1396 Commonwealth avenue, Allston, a former political editor of the Boston Post, an alleged "mattress voter" who voted for Tague from No. 40 Chelsea street, East Boston.

In response to a rigid examination by Attorney Callahan, Taylor admitted that he owned the property numbered 40 and 42 Chelsea street, East Boston, but "did not own the furniture."

"What was your reason for going there to spend the night of March 31, 1918," Taylor was asked.

"I had property reasons for wanting to vote from that address," Taylor replied.

"You went there in order to vote, as a matter of fact, didn't you?" pressed Attorney Callahan.

"Well, I voted for Tague, but I go there every year to establish a domicile to protect certain property rights," answered Taylor.

Taylor admitted that his present "temporary" address in Allston was situated in another congressional district than that in which his property at No. 40 Chelsea street is located. He denied being especially interested in Mr. Tague's political aspirations.

HALL & CARTER, Proprietors

GRAFT RULE AT CITY HALL, SAYS DONOVAN

they would be given a good lunch at the City Club this noon."

Donovan charged that "there is more graft now going on at City Hall than at any other time in the history of the city."

"A million dollar's worth of street contracts were let out to the contractors at war prices for labor and material," he said, "but the city is letting the favored contractors hold up the work until prices go down and the contractors can make a clean-up.

"Chicago and New York are not in it with Boston for rottenness. The Mayor is a victim of sleeping sickness, the small city council-political ingenius is an adjunct of a deaf and dumb asylum, and the Charter Guards and the Goo-Goos are running the city to suit themselves.

"The only time the Charter Guards appear on the surface is when they oppose some good change recommended by someone who does not agree with their policy. They can get their street-widening schemes through much easier with a small city council and a good-government Mayor.

"The first bill filed by one of their Good Government councillors was for a $250,000 playground in his own district. They are paying men $10 a day to shake hands with soldiers. The tax bill put $3,500,000 in easy reach of the greedy contractors. You can't run unless you get their approval and every time you vote for them you vote against your conscience.

"Mayor Hibbard did everything they wanted, but when his term was up they said, 'You've made yourself too unpopular,' and they turned him down. He died of a broken heart.

"They come up here headed by that noted 'purist,' John A. Sullivan. Sullivan 'the reformer.' They used to say that under the Curley administration Marks Angell sold junk to the city ten times over, and when Curley got through, Marks had forgotten to collect $5,000. The City Council said it wouldn't be paid. The Mayor said it shouldn't. Roy Marks got John A. for his counsel and the Good Government Council paid Marks his $5,000.

"St. James Hall was closed up and the authorities proceeded against Convention Hall. But the 'great purifier,' Sullivan, was hired and Convention Hall is still on the job.

"A poor man can't run for office under the present charter against the millions of the Charter Guards and Good Government Association. They can flood the city with pamphlets, but the poor man has got to go out and campaign on the street corners."

The proposed bill would increase the council from nine to sixteen members, who would be elected by districts.

$2,000 FOR CAB HIRE.

City Councilors Attridge and Collins of the Good Government forces, Chairman George A. Flynn of the Boston Finance Commission, Herbert A. Wilson of the Building Department and Robert J. Bottomley of the Good Government Association were among those present.

Sullivan, at a previous hearing, said that in 1896, when the old Council was in existence, $2,000 in cab hire was spent by one member alone. Senator John F. Mahony presented a statement from City Auditor Mitchell that the total amount expended for transportation in that year by all the members was $162.29.

Chairman Flynn, head of what Donovan termed the "worthless million-dollar Fin Com," submitted a typewritten statement which vigorously attacked the proposed change. The statement said, in part:

"The investigations of the original Finance Commission prove clearly that district representation necessarily resulted in the election of councilors who were interested only in obtaining jobs for their constituents and local improvements for their districts on which to found a claim for re-election or political promotion, without regard to the needs of the city as a whole.

ANNUAL LOAN BILL EVIL.

"One of the greatest evils of this system was the annual loan bill, which was always loaded with expensive local improvements of no real public value to the city, inserted to satisfy the demands of councilors and to insure its passage. The members had little knowledge of or regard for the financial condition of the city. Their principal desire was to vote appropriations and loans to satisfy the demands of their respective districts and so further their political ambitions.

"The proceedings of the old City Council were too often marked by the absence of decorum. Its members indulged frequently in verbal assaults upon heads of departments who refused to do their bidding and some of the members became involved in public scandals."

"Log-rolling?" said Donovan. "There is more going on than ever before. The Mayor is log-rolling the Boylston street bill, his tax bill and others. They tell the Committee of the Legislature one thing and then secretly telephone up another."

Representatives Edward J. Cox of East Boston, James J. Moynihan and Owen of Dorchester and John I. Fitzgerald, former Representative Frank W. Thayer of Dorchester and Frank A. Goodwin, former street commissioner, were among other advocates of the bill.

Woolworth, Founder of 5 and 10 Cent Stores, Dead

By International News Service.

Glen Cove, L. I., April 8.—Frank Winfield Woolworth, the man after whom the tallest building in the world was named, is dead at his country home here today, following an illness of several months. Death came suddenly and unexpectedly. He was in his sixty-seventh year. Mr. Woolworth was born at Rodman, N. Y., the son of John H. and Fannie McBriar Woolworth. He started out as an office boy without salary at the age of twenty-one, but amassed a great fortune and became widely known as the founder and owner of a string of 5 and 10 cent stores. His first store was established in Utica, N. Y.

DETROIT VOTES AGAINST CITY OWNERSHIP

Detroit, April 8.—Detroit voted down the proposal to buy the Detroit United Street Railway system for $31,500,000 by an overwhelming majority in the city election Monday.

A three-fifths vote was required to adopt the purchase plan advocated by Detroit's millionaire Mayor, James Couzens. The proposition received less than 50 per cent of the votes.

The plan was evolved by Couzens and the city's street railway commission to settle the twenty-five-year battle between the railway system and the city. Opponents declared the price exorbitant, pointing to two appraisals made a few years ago, one fixing the property's value at $11,000,000 and the other at $23,000,000.

Mayor Couzens compromised with the railroad officials, who demanded $33,000,000. The Mayor had offered $25,000,000.

Officials concede that the amendment to allow the sale and manufacture of wines and beer in Michigan was defeated by about 100,000 majority.

The whole Republican State ticket was elected.

WAGE INCREASE FOR ELEVATED EMPLOYES

The wage increases granted Boston Elevated Railway Company employes during 1918 would amount to about $4,000,000 if applied to a full year and the total payroll for the six months ended with December amounted to $6,695,930, of which $6,329,956 entered into cost of service, and shows an average per passenger of 3.915 cents.

The total number of round trips run by company's cars was 5,622,434; the total number of revenue miles, 23,021,816; total revenue car hours, 4,887,278, and number of passengers carried, 348,684,708.

At the end of 1918 the company had 6,262 common stockholders and 3,535 preferred. Holdings in Massachusetts represented 213,435 out of the 218,704 common shares, and 27,561 of the 30,000 preferred shares.

BRITISH CRISIS COMING AFTER PEACE

Coalition Government Must Face Great Problems Born With Reconstruction

by FLOYD MacGRIFF,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, April 8.—When the decks are cleared in Paris by the signing of the first peace treaty Premier Lloyd George and A. Bonar Law, leader of the House of Commons, will be called upon to face domestic and imperial problems as difficult as those which were considered at the peace conference table. Both are strong members of the coalition government, the Premier being a Liberal and Mr. Law a Unionist.

A vast population will be waiting for some application of new ideas which the settlement of the war has brought into being.

Powerful political factors will be on their way up a reunion of the constant political battle which, due to the form of government in England, wages from week to week.

Unemployment, Home Rule for Ireland, conscription, nationalization of industries, strike troubles, and financing the war—around these and new issues which will arise later the political struggle will be fought out. The Union of "Tories" and Liberals is already being attacked notably in the Northcliff press.

"DILLY" AND "DALLY."

The Evening News has invented two long bearded and tall hatted caricatures known as "Dilly" and "Dally," who march through the printed pages and halt at the door of this or that mismanaged department of the government. The government official who sits at a desk behind the door before which the caricature attack is made, is usually a Unionist.

The argument is obvious; it is the Tory officials who usually dilly and dally in handling governmental affairs and put obstacles in the way of progress. Most of the attacks upon the coalition government will come from those who desire to see a Liberal government established and from Labor men who refused to enter the coalition.

While one or two bye-elections have shown a drift of public sentiment away from the coalition, it is declared by keen political students that Lloyd George would be put back into power again if there were an election today.

While public confidence in the Premier may not be as great as it was, it is evident that the public has not seen any other big political figure loom upon the horizon to interest it sufficiently to wish to "swap horses while crossing a stream."

It is believed in some circles that the Premier or Lord Northcliffe hopes to unite the coalition Liberals, the remnant of the Asquithian Liberals, the coalition Labor men and the opposition Labor party. These may be amalgamated into a progressive party made up of a coalition of the different wings of the old Liberals and their adherents. This would be a daring feat and one by no means easy of accomplishment.

Such a development would create a great central party, opposed on one hand by the Tories and on the other by the Radicals. There is no visible sign that there will be any immediate big move on the political field, but the struggle between the factions will certainly be in progress for months. Its uncertainty will write a big question mark into the political position of the Lloyd George government.

"Interminable Discussion Over Trivial Matters" Prolongs Peace Sessions

By JOHN T. PARKERSON,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, April 8.—The size of reparation Germany must pay was the principal business before the "big four" today.

A leading member of the American mission told me he believed that the situation had been clarified by President Wilson's stand and that the possibility for an agreement is growing brighter. One of the chief difficulties has been the interminable discussions over trivial matters.

However, the "big four" are said to be "nearly together" on the main issues.

While semi-official French circles declared that there is practically an agreement on reparations it is insisted in American circles that the matter is not settled.

The Temps says that the French are not insisting upon the annexation of the Saare Valley, but stand upon the frontiers of 1870.

Plans for a meeting of the League of Nations commission today were abandoned at the last minute.

Premier Paderewski of Poland is visiting all of the peace conference officials, insisting that Poland's claims be given further recognition. The two Polish divisions, which are to be sent into Poland, will leave April 15.

BRITISH TROOPS QUELL RIOTS IN DELHI, INDIA

Bombay, March 31, via London, April 7.—Rioting has occurred at Delhi, making necessary intervention by government troops, who charged into the rioting mobs. There were few casualties.

SCARES CROWD WITH BLANK CARTRIDGES

Fred Read, No. 631 Western avenue, Lynn, drove 200 workers of the General Electric Company out of Whelan's lunchroom today with a revolver loaded with blank cartridges. Read was arrested.

General Cole to Leave the Service After Y. D. Parade

Two important orders regarding Major-General Harry C. Hale, commanding the 26th Division, and Brigadier-General Charles H. Cole, commanding the 52nd Infantry Brigade, were received at army headquarters here today from Adjutant-General Harris at Washington.

After the Yankee Division is demobilized at Camp Devens General Hale will proceed to Camp Dix, N. J., to take command of that camp, relieving General Scott, retired.

Brigadier-General Cole will be honorably discharged from the army after completion of his duties in connection with the Yankee Division parade in Boston and after the demobilization of his brigade.

PEACE BASED ON 14 POINTS, U. S. DEMAND

President Wilson Stands Firm for Principles Adhered to From Beginning

That is the attitude of the United States today, and it will be maintained. This proposition is one which it is impossible to argue. Therefore the United States delegates are insisting upon action along the lines promised to the peoples of the world.

President Wilson has nearly recovered from his cold. He notified his associates and the other powers that he desired the "Big Four" to meet at his residence today if a session were held.

I am able personally to say that the American position is absolutely in no way a "bluff," nor was it taken for political effect. The President is simply determined that the pledges of the United States shall be carried out.

"Big Four" Consider New German Frontier and Reparation Problems

By International News Service.

Paris, April 8.—Following the double session on Monday the "Big Four" met again today.

George of England is beginning to show the physical strain of the arduous negotiations and the second meeting on Monday was held at his residence because of the state of his health.

The two questions which the representatives of the Big Four powers are now trying to decide are:

1—The France-German frontier.
2—The amount of reparation Germany must pay.

The diplomatic battle has reached such a stage that every one's nerves are on edge and there is tension in the very air.

There are contrary views held as to whether any delegation will drop out of the conference. The report that President Wilson may return to the United States if the deadlock continues has aroused opinion in some quarters that the commissioners will hang together somehow.

Threats are regarded more or less as "moves" in the diplomatic game. The Temps publishes an article that is evidently inspired saying that France never had an annexationist view. This is evidently an intended effort to show that the French delegates wish to conform with President Wilson's views.

The Journal in an article today states that it is "puzzled" over President Wilson's message to Washington recalling the liner George Washington.

"How can the President think of leaving Paris when long hours of watchfulness are necessary?" this paper asks.

CAMBRIDGE DENTIST LOSES FIGHT TO REGAIN CHILD

Syracuse, N. Y., April 8.—Dr. Virgilio Multer, a dentist of Cambridge, Mass., has been denied his application for a writ of habeas corpus to take his seven-year-old daughter, Jane Cermsky Multer, from her mother, Mrs. Blossom O. Multer, who resides here with her parents. A Boston court gave the child to the dentist last June. Four months ago they were reconciled. During the influenza epidemic the mother returned here with the child and refused to return. The court was of the opinion that the father was unfitted to have charge of his daughter's welfare.

Stops Medicine—Health Recovered by Internal Baths

Mr. A. Carnecki, 667 Montgomery st., San Francisco, Cal., writes Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute of New York as follows:

"I must admit that the use of the 'J. B. I. Cascade' has relieved my chronic constipation from which I suffered. Since May 12, 1913, I have never even tasted any kind of patent medicine or purgative. My health is excellent in every respect."

Over half a million bright, keen, intelligent Americans have found that internal Bathing is more essential to their health than external baths—

Have found that used occasionally at night they feel like different people the next morning. No more of that bilious, tired, nervous feeling, but having by Nature's own cleanser—sublime warm water—removed all the poisonous waste from the lower intestine they awake thoroughly refreshed by normal sleep, with all their functions acting properly, clear headed, happy and confident, eager and capable for the duties of the day.

Why not learn more about this rapidly growing and natural practice? The "J. B. I. Cascade" is the invention of Chas. A. Tyrrell, M. D., of New York, a specialist on internal baths for 25 years, and is now being shown and explained by all Liggett's Rexall Stores in New England, who will give you—free on request—an interesting booklet on the subject called "Why Man of To-Day Is Only 50% Efficient."

ACHES AND PAINS QUICKLY RELIEVED

You'll find Sloan's Liniment softens the severe rheumatic ache

Sloan's Liniment Kills Pain

CYSTITIS--KIDNEYS

Cystitis oftentimes begins with a chilly sensation, a slight fever, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, nervousness, irritability, or a feeling of depression. Balmwort Tablets is in your possession. Take as directed, and you should find immediate benefits in 24 hours. Tried and Reliable.

Sold by all druggists.

How to Wave Hair to Appear Naturally Curly

You won't need to resort to the parching, scorching curling iron if you will adopt the simple plan I will mention. Just a few nights apply a little thick silmerine with a clean tooth brush, drawing this through the hair from roots to ends. This will impart a delightful wavy appearance and a bright, lustrous suggestive of "hidden sunshine." It will not be noticed in the hair, instead of making it brittle and deadlooking as the hot iron does. In the morning, instead of your tresses being mean and untidy, you will find them quite easy to do up in any form, and there will be no unpleasant odor, grease or stickiness about the hair. I would suggest that you ask your druggist for the liquid silmerine—four or five ounces—which will require no mixing and you can pour a little into a saucer when required.—Emily Coulson in Hygiene.—Advertisement.

CODMAN DENIES SLANDERING EUSTIS

Trial of $100,000 Action for Alleged "German Spy" Utterance Begins at Newport

Newport, April 8.—Echoes of the famous luncheon party given by Mrs. Alexander Dallas B. Pratt last October were heard in Superior Court in the Codman-Eustis slander suit.

Counsel for Ogden Codman of Boston and New York, who is being sued by George Peabody Eustis, nephew of a former ambassador to France, and Mrs. Eustis, for $100,000 in two cases, demurred. Mr. Codman's lawyers took the ground that if Codman called Eustis a German spy, as charged, he did not accuse him of a crime punishable by the laws of Rhode Island or of the United States, but by court-martial, and therefore his charge was not slander.

CHARGE EXCITED NEWPORT.

The suit was filed last October shortly after the Pratt luncheon, at which Eustis alleged Codman called him a "German spy." Eustis was the first civilian to receive a commission in the Spanish-American War. He served as an ensign on the staff of Admiral Emery.

The events leading up to the suit excited Newport for weeks. Both the Codman and Eustis families are among the social leaders of the town. Mrs. Pratt, at whose home the quarrel occurred, is the wife of a New York banker. October 13 she was hostess at a luncheon. Mr. Codman arrived rather early. Mr. and Mrs. Eustis arrived with some of the belated guests.

The two men faced each other, and Codman, in a clear, cold voice, is alleged to have said:

"If I had known that German spy was to be here, I would not have attended."

CODMAN GOES TO HOSPITAL.

Mr. Eustis made no reply. Immediately after the luncheon, however, he hurried to the Codman villa. The butler told him Mr. Codman was not in, but might be found along a certain country road taking his afternoon stroll. Mr. Eustis took the road indicated and met Mr. Codman.

As a result Mr. Codman was taken to a hospital. Shortly afterward the butler was fired.

Mr. Eustis is internationally known as a millionaire turfman and clubman. His first wife, who was also his cousin, was the daughter of James Eustis, President Cleveland's Ambassador to France. She divorced him nearly thirty years ago and married Josef Hofmann, the pianist. Later Eustis married Miss Rosamond Street of New York.

Mr. Codman comes from an old Boston family. In 1904 he married Mrs. H. Walter Webb, whose husband, at his death a few years earlier, left her a fortune estimated at $4,000,000. He is an architect.

PERSHING'S SON ON WAY TO SURPRISE "DADDY"

Nine-year-old Warren Pershing with his soldier-guardian, Sergeant Joseph E. Wells, U. S. A., just before leaving New York for France to visit the commander of the American army. Young Pershing has not seen his father since the latter left the U. S. early in 1917.

New York, April 8.—If General Pershing does not read the newspapers, a surprise will be "sprung" on him when the United States naval transport Leviathan arrives from New York with Secretary of War Baker and party. For nine-year-old Warren Pershing, son of the commander of the American Expeditionary Forces, is on board.

On leaving here, Secretary Baker announced that he hoped to surprise General Pershing with a visit from his little son.

Although of tender years young Warren has a mind of his own and a bluntness of speech which he evidently cultivates as part of a military manner. He was dressed in a miniature lieutenant's uniform. When asked by newspapermen if he would pose for his photograph, he replied curtly: "Absolutely no."

He further declined to be interviewed, and when asked if he was glad he was going to see his father, answered: "I don't see that that is your business."

HALE PUTS FOOT DOWN ON Y.D. RUNAWAYS

Stern Warning to Men Absent Without Leave at Camp Devens

Camp Devens, Ayer, April 8.—Major General Harry C. Hale, commanding the 26th Division, is today confined to his bed with bronchitis, but he attended to business just the same. Calling the newspaper correspondents to his room today, he gave them a statement in which he said that the morale of the 26th Division must be upheld.

"Do not impair the morale of the [illegible]th Division by condoning the offense of men who leave camp without pass," he told correspondents. "This division is going through a very critical period," he added, "and there is a temptation for it to drop a little in discipline.

"Orders to the men are very clear. The temptation, however, is before them all the time. We are giving them every possible consideration in the matter of leave when we allow 25 per cent. of each organization to go home at a time. I would personally like to let 35 per cent. of the men go, but if we do this the bottom will fall out of the organizations.

"We have got to maintain the grip of the division. I ask you again not to condone or make light of desertion. It is insubordination. I am solicitous that the men of the 26th go out with records unimpaired. A complete report of the operations of the division must be written and this will be an ineradicable record. I am anxious to see this division go out clean, and I believe it can be done."

General Hale has established a rigid military police system to keep possible offenders against the absence without leave rule under control.

"I understand the sentiment of men who want to rush home for a little kiss and a hug," said General Hale, "but only 25 per cent can go home at a time." He declared the demobilization would not be over until April 30, and that the men must stay until demobilized.

ANGRY SOLDIERS HELD ON SHIP OVER NIGHT

New York, April 8.—More than 2,000 indignant American citizens, most of them born fighters, who, when turned down by the army enlistment officers and their local draft boards, either enlisted in the British recruiting offices in the United States or in Canada, landed here today from the Cunarder Mauretania, vowing vengeance upon the heads of those who compelled them to remain aboard the vessel overnight.

The Mauretania arrived in New York Harbor late Monday afternoon, bring home Vice-Admiral Sims, his staff, and several hundred civilian passengers, in addition to 1,127 returning American officers and men and the 2,200 Americans who had fought in the British ranks during the war.

Arriving at her pier the American troops were all debarked, and when it came time for those wearing the British and Canadian uniforms to go ashore, permission was refused them to do so, the Immigration Department officials, stating that as the men had enlisted in the British Army they had lost their status as American citizens, and in addition to this the Mauretania's purser had neglected to put their names on the ship's passenger manifest and therefore they could not be landed.

Brigadier-General McManus, second in command at the Port of Debarkation here, appealed in vain to the immigration officials, but the latter remained obdurate.

Among the "Britishers" who returned were several well known Boston men. One of these was Sergeant John Hudson Merrill of the Royal Horse Artillery. His parents and parents' parents have resided in Nahant for generations.

Merrill, who is now forty years old, married an Adams, Mass., girl and a descendant of Susan B. Anthony, the marriage ceremony being performed at the Cathedral in Boston by Cardinal O'Connell.

In perfect physical fit, he appealed in vain to the recruiting officers in and around Boston. He told them of his previous service and insisted that he was a member in good standing of the Pilot Corps Cadets of Boston, but to all of his pleadings he invariably received the answer "too old."

He finally reduced his age to fit the requirements and enlisted in the British army at Buffalo, N. Y., going overseas, where he won distinction at Ait, Le Bains, the second battle of Cambrai and the second battle of Vimy Ridge. There he was one of thirty-two men out of a battalion of five thousand to survive that terrible conflict.

WILL ROUND UP ROBBERS AT PAWTUCKET

Daring Holdup Attempted on "Picked Victim" Leads to Action

Pawtucket, April 8.—Having rid the city of "wild women," police officials say they will round up "jippers," better known outside police circles as robbers.

The crusade is the result of a daring hold-up attempt Saturday night when Walter J. Latendre, known in boxing circles as "Speed Ferns," was shot by William Robertson who is said to have been marked for robbery. The police say Latendre dropped a loaded revolver as he fell headlong with a bullet in his brain.

According to Police Chief Charles H. Hill, Robertson was on his way homeward bound with a goodly supply of money. Chief Hill says Latendre tried to get away when fired at by Robertson.

Octave Fournier, twenty, was arrested, charged with being with Latendre and waived examination before Judge Leland J. Tuck and held in $5,000 bail for the June terms of the grand jury. The police say that Robertson's saloon, "Sparrow's Nest," was watched by gangsters for victims.

START ON OCEAN FLIGHT ON APRIL 15

London, April 8.—An effort is to be made, perhaps within a few days, to fly across the Atlantic from the American side, according to an official statement of the Air Ministry, published today.

Harry Hawker will be the first of five British aviators to start, the statement says. He expects to start about April 15, when there is a full moon.

The Air Ministry has placed its knowledge and resources at the disposal of the aviators. The five entrants will fly individually, and will not go as a squadron.

Ships will be stationed at various points across the path to be taken by the aircraft and will burn flares by night to guide the aviators. They will also be in constant wireless communication with the fliers.

The Handley-Page Airplane Company announced its intention today of entering one of its machines.

A dispatch from St. Johns indicates the flight will be from Newfoundland.

A huge white cross is being painted upon Bawnmore Field, a mile from Limerick, Ireland, to mark the landing and starting place of airplanes taking part in the flight.

One of the contestants, Major Wood, announces that he will use a Short biplane, equipped with a Rolls Royce motor.

SOLDIERS AND SAILORS FORM NEW LEGION

By J. BART CAMPBELL,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, April 8.—"I am not for the Bolshevism of force but for the Bolshevism of justice and equality secured by the ballot box."

This declaration was made today by former Representative Ernest Lundeen of Minnesota, who has just been chosen counsel for the newly incorporated Private Soldiers' and Sailors' Legion of the United States of America.

"Keep an eye on the private soldier who served in this war; he is yet to be really heard from," says Lundeen, a Spanish American War veteran.

"American soldiers have just begun to pour home from overseas. They are not going to be satisfied with charity, with a pittance of $60 like the Congress tacked onto the revenue bill. They will find a way to get that to which they are entitled if the next Congress does not make proper provision for them. I know. I have mingled with many who have already returned from 'over there.' They are demanding to know why the last Congress failed to provide for them. Just wait until they register their resentment at the polls!"

Hardly had Lundeen concluded than a well-know figure in an overseas service uniform approached. Three gold stripes glistened on one arm. Lundeen introduced the soldier as Marvin G. Sperry, late of Company F, 12th Engineers, A. E. F., now national president of the new Private Soldiers' and Sailors' Legion, with national headquarters at No. 802-10 F street, N. W., Washington.

"Is our organization going ahead? Just watch us grow," remarked Sperry. "I have just sent organizers into Mississippi, Kentucky, Massachusetts and Florida. We will have an organization in every State before we are through. Our objects? Fair play for the private soldier is one."

Sperry said he was a locomotive engineer before he enlisted in the army when America entered the war. He bitterly censured the court-martial system of the army, of which he complained he had been a victim before the cessation of hostilities. He had "slipped away and fought in the ranks of Byng's (British) army on the western front without asking permission to do so."

First Drummer by Air Route "Drops in on Trade"

Detroit, Mich., April 8.—What is claimed to be the first aeroplane to be used exclusively for conveyance of a commercial salesman has just arrived in Detroit from Syracuse, N. Y.

Without a cinder in his eyes or hair, "Airplane" Irvine, the air route drummer, dropped into Detroit for the purpose of selling goods to local dealers. He announced that he would make flights to interurban towns in this State, including Cleveland, during the next week.

Each Jiffy-Jell package costs 12½ cents. Yet the end label is worth 20 cents this week toward these molds.

Who Will Try Our Finest Jiffy-Jell Flavors

Loganberry
Our finest berry flavor

Pineapple

Lime Fruit

Mint
For garnish jell

There are four flavors in Jiffy-Jell which are particularly delightful. Two are dessert flavors — Loganberry and Pineapple. One is Lime-Fruit flavor, for salads. One is Mint, for garnish jell.

This remarkable offer is made, for one week only, to induce every home to try them. We are making each 12½-cent package worth 20 cents on our pure aluminum molds.

Fruit Essences Sealed in Glass

Jiffy-Jell fruit flavors are made from the fruit itself. They are essences condensed from fruit juices. They come sealed in glass vials—a bottle in each package—so they keep their fresh-fruit taste.

The flavors are rich and abundant. We use half a pineapple to make the flavor for one Jiffy-Jell dessert. We use 65 big Loganberries to flavor another. So Jiffy-Jell desserts are real-fruit dainties. They have all the delights, all the healthiness of fruits.

That is where Jiffy-Jell differs so vastly from the old-style gelatine dainties.

12½c Per Dinner

Jiffy-Jell comes ready-sweetened, in proper color and acidulated. You simply add boiling water, then the flavor from the vial, and let cool. One package serves six people in mold form, or 12 if you whip the jell — all for 12½ cents. Think of that for a rich, fruity dessert — less than a fruitless pudding costs. And the ten flavors give you variety.

Also Salads

Lime-fruit flavor makes tart, green salad jell. Serve with your salads or mix the salads in before cooling. Or mix in meat scraps and make a delicious meat loaf.

Mint flavor makes a garnish jell, rich in fresh-mint flavor. Serve with roast lamb or cold meats.

You Need Them

You need these real-fruit dainties at this season. Everybody needs fruit daily. Here you get it in the finest form at very little cost. Learn what it means to you.

Accept the offers we make below. It will introduce our finest flavors to you. After that, you will serve Jiffy-Jell in some form at least three times weekly. And you will know a new delight.

The other billtopper, Julian Hall, is an individual entertainer who has been styled "the Jazz Boy."

"Gets-It" Peels My Corns Off!

Any Corn or Callus Comes Off Peacefully, Painlessly, Never Fails.

It's almost a crime to get rid of a corn or callus that "gets-it" so easy. You need only 2 seconds putting on 2 or 3 drops of "Gets-It," about as simple as putting on your shoe.

The "Gets-It" peel off corn this way.

Your feet "gets-it" deep and forever with "contraptions," "wrappy" plasters, greasy substances that ruin your shoes, cutting knives, and scissors that stub into the "quick." "Gets-It" says "nix" to those "dumpy" corn shrinks, dies, loosens from the toe. You peel the corn peacefully from your toe in one complete piece. That's where the picnic comes in—you peel it as you would a banana peel. Nothing else but "Gets-It" can do it. Get peaceful, common-sense "Gets-It."

"Gets-It," the guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, the only sure way, costs but a trifle at any drug store. 1f'd by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Don't Let Soap Spoil Your Hair

When you wash your hair be careful what you use. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Advertisement.

KEITH'S BILL IS A RIOT OF FUN

Louise Dresser and her husband, Jack Gardner, head a bill at Keith's this week that starts slow and ends up in a whirlwind of fun. Miss Dresser and Mr. Gardner, with a supporting company of two, enact a playlet written for them by Jack Lait, built around mutual desire to "bunch" the salaries of the pair and keep them together on the road.

It gives Miss Dresser a chance to display three wonderful gowns, put over a few imitations and songs and some eccentric dancing.

The act would have gone better had it not been shadowed by Eddie Nelson and Bell Chain in "The Four Flushers," a delightful trick preceded them. This act gave the two boys a good chance to do a lot of work that did not appear to be part of their regular act.

They enter on tricycles and sing a parody medley that is really clever. Chain then sings a "hot" song and from that point on they are a riot which is only closed after Nelson executes a burlesque Egyptian dance.

Walter C. Kelly, "The Virginia Judge," well-known in this city, is as funny as ever, and his stories in Irish and negro dialect convulsed the house.

Other acts on the bill were: Sutter & Dell in "Look Out," a bicycle act with some acrobatic tricks; Ryan, who entertained with a piano accordion; Cartmell and Harris, a boy and girl act; "Golfing With Cupid," Russell Mack and Blanche Vincent in a very clever song and dance act; Frances Pritchard and William Pinkham, in "The Memory Book," a series of before scenes, and the Apollo Trio in a bronze acrobatic offering.

TREMONT TEMPLE—"The Eternal Light," presented by the Catholic Art Society, is a very remarkable film based upon the life of Christ. The pictures were made in Palestine and are based upon the most authentic Catholic history of the period of Christ.

The picture deals with the entire life of Christ and is therefore very long. It is divided into five parts. The scenes dealing with the Crucifixion are poignantly realistic.

The play is in seven reels, with wonderful color effects, and some evolutionary supernatural scenes. The Lotus quartet sang appropriate numbers.

GORDON'S OLYMPIA—Theda Bara, in a film version of "Salome," opened a special engagement in connection with a vaudeville bill. The Biblical play is similar to "The Yoke" as dramatized by Oscar Wilde. It tells the story of Herod's infatuation with his step-daughter and shows the famous dance of the Seven Veils. Miss Bara's costumes were gorgeous in the extreme, setting off the actress' unusual beauty. The film play is a spectacle of barbaric splendor, sumptuously staged. The vaudeville bill is lively and amusing.

MODERN AND BEACON THEATRES—Boston's famous singing actress who oscillates between stage and screen for the pleasure of her public, Geraldine Farrar, is shown in her latest photoplay "The Stronger Vow" which will run throughout the week. This is a modern story that offers the star a role which calls upon her favored emotional gifts and which pictures her in some fashionable modes. The other photoplay also in a first showing in Boston, is "Peppy Polly," with Dorothy Gish in the title role. This has an unusual story.

NEW FILM SHOWN IN HOME-TOWN THEATRES

MARLBOROUGH THEATRE, MARLBORO—Offers today the comedy "Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots," starring Constance Talmadge as the big feature; William Duncan in the seventh chapter of "Man of Might." Other bright and the ever popular bathing girls in "Among Neptune's Fairies."

STRAND THEATRE, PORTLAND, MAINE—John Barrymore returns to the screen for a three-day engagement in his latest five-act Paramount success, "The Test of Honor." Madeline Traverse in her latest Flue play, "Vanishing a Bride," a Mack Sennett comedy in two acts, the Hearst News Weekly and the Strand Symphony Orchestra are also featured.

CLEVER CROOK PLAY AT THE ARLINGTON

"Kick In," the famous crook play, is presented by the Arlington Stock Company at the Arlington theatre this week.

The plot is gripping from beginning to end. Like nearly all good plays it has a happy ending, after a long and tedious road of reverses, upsets and obstacles.

Dudley Ayres, the leading man, assumes the role of Chick Hewet, a reformed crook, made so by the steadfast faith in which his wife, Molly holds him.

In order to create a plot of interest, it is necessary that Chick Hewes and Molly be always under the suspicion of the police. A crime is committed and the police, through their blundering inability to apprehend the real perpetrator, attempt to fasten the blame, indirectly, upon Hewes or his friends.

Clever threading makes it possible for the playwright to create tense by-plots which eventually dove-tail with almost magic accuracy into the real plot.

The play has a few bright comedy spots, probably enough to serve as a relief from the tenseness of the whole play, but not enough to in any way detract interest.

The excellent acting of the members of the company make "Kick In" a real treat to theatregoers.

"Kick In" is all that its producers have promised—a play well worth seeing.

GLOBE THEATRE—A trio of good photoplays inaugurated the week's bill. For the first half there were shown Louise Huff in "The Little Intruder" and Marie Walcamp and Earl Metcalfe in "Marriage for Convenience." The last half of the week will be shown Anita Stewart in "The Mothering Heart," in which she is pictured as a mysterious young woman rescued from a sinking ocean liner.

GAYETY THEATRE—Max Spiegel's "Merry Rounders," with Abe Reynolds and Florence Mills in an entirely new edition, provide entertainment at this popular house.

Engaged in the support of Reynolds and Miss Mills are John Quinn, a Bachelor impersonator; Al. Fitzwood Faber, a rural comedian, and Alfred Tyson, a dainty mite of femininity cast in the soubrette role.

Plays That Remain

Wilbur Theatre—William Collier, fifth week in "Nothing But Lies." It already established as a laughing success with every prospect of a long run.

Park Square Theatre—"Adam and Eva," comedy by Bolton and Middleton. Light and cheerful comedy, well played.

Plymouth Theatre—"She Walked in Her Sleep," a farce amusingly constructed and cleverly played; third week.

Hollis Street Theatre—George Arliss and company, including Mrs. Arliss and Philip Merivale, in double bill, "The Mollusc" revived, and "A Well Remembered Voice," by Barrie. Fifth week here.

Majestic Theatre—Last week of Mary Nash in "The Big Chance," interesting melodrama with background of war.

Tremont Theatre—"The Rainbow Girl," last week but one; musical comedy full of pretty tunes and laughable situations.

Colonial Theatre—Fred Stone in "Jack o' Lantern," extravaganza and gorgeous spectacle, with the famous star in his best vein.

Copley Theatre—"Arms and the Man," brilliant comedy and satire on war by Bernard Shaw, repeated this week by the Jewett Players.

PALMER REFUSES AID TO CUT DEBS SENTENCE

Washington, April 8.—Eugene V. Debs can expect no recommendation for clemency from the Department of Justice. Attorney-General Palmer made this plain today in reviewing the cases and said the ten-year sentence imposed on Debs must stand. "My duty is clear," said the attorney-general. "Debs' open defiance of the law and threat of force to obstruct its orderly administration call for only one answer. The law must be obeyed."

How Women of Today Are Able To Guard Against Anaemia—

Lack of Iron In the Blood

The Greatest Curse to Health and Beauty

Physician Explains Why Red Blood—Rich In Iron—Keeps Women Strong and Well While Lack of Iron Makes Them Weak, Nervous, Fretful and Rundown—Says:

Introduction of Organic Iron—Nuxated Iron—Helps Solve Problem of Supplying Iron Deficiency. Thereby Increasing the Strength and Endurance of Delicate, Careworn Women in Two Weeks' Time in Many Instances.

If you tire easily, if you are nervous or irritable or look pale, haggard and worn—your blood may be starving for want of iron, according to physicians who explain below why they regard anaemia as the greatest curse to the health, strength and beauty of the modern American woman.

That women may become stronger, healthier and better able to meet the cares of home and family by increasing the supply of iron in their blood is the opinion expressed, yet it would appear that there are thousands of delicate, run-down women who need something to build up their red blood corpuscles and increase their strength, but often do not know what to take. In commenting upon this Dr. George H. Baker, formerly Physician and Surgeon Monmouth Memorial Hospital of New Jersey, said:

"What women need to put roses in their cheeks and the springtime of life into their step is not ordinary tonics or stimulating drugs, but plenty of rich, pure red blood. Without it no woman can do justice to herself or to her work. Iron is one of the greatest blood, strength and blood builders, and the lack of organic iron is the chief experience as directly responsible for making so many healthy, red-blooded women as Nuxated Iron. From a careful examination of the formula and my own tests of Nuxated Iron, I am convinced that it is a preparation which any physician may take unhesitatingly prescribe for his patients with the utmost confidence that they will receive highly beneficial and satisfactory results.

Among other physicians asked to make tests of Nuxated Iron was MacAlpine, formerly of the New York surgeon, member of the New York State Board of Health, and for 16 years Adjunct Professor of the New York Post Graduate Medical School and Hospital, who says: "You can tell the women who have blood rich in organic iron, they are the beautiful, healthy, rosy-cheeked ones, radiant with life and energy—envied and sought after everywhere they go. Yet deficient blood is said and written by physicians about the alarming increase of pale, sickly women in the average American woman of today, there are thousands who need something to enrich their impoverished blood corpuscles and build up their strength and vitality, but who either careless of their condition do not know what to take. In my opinion there is nothing better than organic iron—Nuxated Iron—to help make healthy, full-blooded, beautiful women. By enriching the blood and increasing its oxygen-carrying power, Nuxated Iron will often transform the pale, sickly face of a woman into a glow of health and make them look years younger within a surprisingly short time."

In commenting upon the above statement regarding the alarming iron deficiency in the blood of the American people, a New York physician and Medical Author says: "I fully agree with Dr. MacAlpine that there can be no healthy, rosy-cheeked women without iron. I have frequently pointed the fact that doctors should prescribe more organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for their nervous, run-down, weak, haggard looking patients. Nuxated Iron has proved a veritable godsend to the greatest curse to the health, strength, vitality and beauty of the modern American woman. Lack of iron in the blood may often transform a beautiful, vivacious, red-cheeked woman into one who is cross, nervous and irritable—one who makes life miserable for herself, intolerable for her husband and disagreeable for her children. When the iron goes from the blood of women, the roses go from their cheeks."

If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two 5-grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained.

Manufacturer's Note: Nuxated Iron which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians is a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results in every instance or they will refund your money. It is dispensed by all good druggists.

RED SOX READY TO END STAY IN FLORIDA

By JACK CONWAY

Gainesville, Fla., April 8—Jawn McGraw advanced the sad tidings that he would not permit the Red Sox to take part in any of his future birthday celebrations as the Giants prepared to battle the world's champions in the fourth game of their series here today.

The New York chief naturally did not enjoy the two setbacks administered to Tampa but he had all figured that Wood, Hearn, Knetzer, Hoblitzel, Pruett and Leonard would reverse the situation here.

As the game was called the Little Napoleon wasn't present. However, Jesse Burkett apparently had not instructed the men to desert and left Roger Bresnahan in charge of the opposing forces.

With Hoblitzel and Sam Jones carded to do the hurling today, the Cambridge ball fans had hopes of winning four straight.

BABE STINGS ONLY ONE.

As Babe Ruth has not had an opportunity to appear in several games here he was left severely alone by the Red Sox. Not for the first time in his baseball career, however, Ruth showed that he knows how to use a bat when he gets into the pinch.

The Babe is a big leaguer, Manager Wallace and today nothing will be left undone to keep him from getting away with any more ball games. Ruth was pitched out of the box in the first inning of the game.

Although Babe was unsuccessful in the pinch he was not to be denied. In the fifth inning he came to bat with the bases empty and two out. Ruth lined a terrific drive to the fence in left field, which Hooper had no trouble in getting. Ruth was credited with a single, however, as the ball was scored as a hit.

Umpire O. Jack Bentley of New York, welterweight champion, and Bruno Bowser of Evanston, 220 pounds, Bowser scored a win in the struggle.

GOLFERS LOOSE AGAIN.

WHEN you hear the golfers twittering on the lower bough of a spreading Morris chair you know that Spring is here with both feather. If the man with the hoe is brother to the ox, the gent with the rack is brother to the bull.

We don't know what there is about suburban billiards that makes a citizen forget what maids George Washington famous. But at all George hung up his record before they invented Scottish croquet and income taxes. It's dollars against buttons that George couldn't do it now. And the dollars would be as safe as a Home Guard.

The average young General, who couldn't spank a grapefruit with a bass fiddle, will perch a gutta percha pimple on a stylish little scrap of ashes and then gum the afternoon swinging at it like a bird fanning soup with his hat. There's more than one way to spoil a Summer. He hires a boy to follow him with an umbrella rack full of golf crutches.

Practice Makes Perfect.

EVERY time one tries to swat the little rubber pimple and misses he squawks for another crutch. Most players are very particular about what kind of club they miss with. For instance, a foozle with a mashie is poor form when the rules call for a niblick with a putter in golluf, when you do anything wrong you must do it wrong right. The first few inches swings the wrong club, but after a while he gets so that he misses the pea kimonoed pill much easier.

Rural Tiddlywinks.

THIS idea of the game is something like tiddlywinks but on a worse scale. Any field where there are chicken feed mouse nests is an ideal golf sanitarium. You try to pop the ball into one of the nests. It all seems silly, but we must give credit where credit is nostrum due. There is more to golf than you would think by looking at most of the players.

ADMINISTRATION may be wise in not bringing the troops home before next election day.

THE sad part about it is that last useless cluttering is. We don't know how much they are saving. A pair of button canes that nicked you four bertios in 1915 now cost fourteen smackers. The old time shoes were good for at least eleven calls.

Harvard Football Squad Starts Spring Work Going in Stadium

Ninety-six men were present at a meeting called yesterday for the Harvard football team held in the Union.

Wingate Rollins in charge of Spring practice was the chief speaker. Bob Fisher, Crimson's famous scrub coach, and Bob Fisher, coach of the 1911 team were also present from Cambridge.

Outdoor work will begin this afternoon at 4 o'clock. All the members of the Harvard coaching staff, save Percy Haughton, are expected to be present at least two or three times during the Spring work.

BRAVES WIND UP SERIES WITH THE TIGERS

By NICK FLATLEY

Jacksonville, Fla., April 8—Though the Braves have been forced back to the mark of the hectic spring season with two games apiece, the Detroit Tigers hope an equal showdown exists at their respective camps.

They dropped the fifth clash of the series here in Columbia but they only were nosed out by a single run as a result of a steal and the defeat had several very redeeming features. Not only did Detroit's pitching staff show a much improved form when the rules call for a mascue with a putter in golluf, when you do anything wrong you must do it wrong right. The first few inches swings the wrong club, but after a while he gets so that he misses the pea kimonoed pill much easier.

RECORD WHEAT CROP IS U. S. FORECAST

Harvest Will Exceed Last Year's by 279,000,000 Bushels

Washington, April 8.—The crop reporting board of the Bureau of Crop Estimates, United States Department of Agriculture, makes the following estimates and record-breaking 1919 wheat crop from reports of its correspondents and agents:

The average condition of Winter wheat on April 1 was 99.8 per cent. of a normal, against 78.6 on April 1, 1918; 82.4 on April 1, 1917 and an average condition of 82.3 for the past ten years on April 1.

There was a decrease in condition from December 1, 1918, to April 1, 1919, of 12.2 points as compared with an average decline in the past ten years of 3.9 points between these dates.

Upon the assumption of average abandonment of acreage and average influences on the crop to harvest, condition April 1, forecasts a production of about 857,000,000 bushels, which compares with 578,000,000 bushels, the total production in 1918, and 412,901,000 in 1917.

The average condition of rye on April 1 was 90.6 per cent. of a normal, against 85.8 on April 1, 1918; 86.0 on April 1, 1917, and an average condition of 85.6 for the past ten years on April 1.

STEEL ORDERS ARE HELD BACK BY FOREIGNERS

Foreign buyers of rails and other steel products are holding back orders because of the disagreement between Washington officials in regard to what prices consumers shall pay. Abroad, as well as in this country, there is expectation that prices will be lower than the rates decided upon by manufacturers and the Industrial Board.

"Foreign inquiries for rails are especially heavy," it is said, "and in view of the limited supply and high prices in other producing countries, some substantial additional orders are expected once the price is out of the way and contracts for export rails have been placed."

Within a few months Holland has bought about 40,000 tons of steel for East India colonies, but it is understood no rails have been ordered for the steam road extensions planned in Java and Sumatra. Such requirements are estimated at 100,000 tons or more annually and the buying is likely to be largely in this country for several years, or until Holland can supply its own needs in its proposed Netherlandish plant.

MARCH COPPER EXPORTS SMALLEST FOR YEAR

There has been a great shrinkage in copper exports this year, amounting in February to 53,543 tons, those in February 13,549 and the March business 8,716 tons. The March figure is the smallest for any month in four years. Exportation of American copper reached its highest in January 1917, when shipments amounted to 91,332 tons.

Germany cannot buy copper at present and imports are embargoes by France and Italy. Only Great England had approximately 115,000,000 pounds on hand at the end of March, 96 percent of the metal annually consumed in the United Kingdom before the war.

BOSTON EXPORTERS TO PROTEST CABLE DELAYS

On behalf of Boston exporters, a formal protest will be made to the War Department at Washington against delays to which they have been subjected in the transmission of cablegrams. Complaints will also be lodged with Massachusetts State authorities.

Charles R. Nutter, head of the Foreign Trade Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, said that the decision is based upon answers received from many of the 375 Boston members of the Export Bureau.

SOUTHERN COTTON SELLING WEAKENS THE MARKET

New York, April 8.—The South was rather a conspicuous seller of cotton at the opening of the cotton market today. In connection with poor selling and a belief that the question of peace news this morning it weakened the market sharply, old styles losing 26 to 25 points at the start and new contracts 5 to 25 points. The offerings were absorbed readily by trade interests and a little scattered commission house buying due to the cloudy, unsettled weather in the belt, where clear conditions are badly needed.

At the end of the first twenty minutes the market was active and rather heavy as a net loss of 15 to 25 points on new style contracts, influenced by increased liquidation by long accounts partly on Wall Street orders.

Opening prices were: May, old 24.75, new 26.10; July, old 23.60, new 24.20; September, old 22.50, new October, old 21.90, new 22.45; November, new 22.35; December, new 21.98; January, new 21.77.

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks continued to climb at midday and by afternoon five had sold well above the highest records. They were American International Corporation, U. S. Rubber, Kelly Springfield, American Agricultural Chemical and General Motors.

The largest gain was about twelve points by Burns Brothers. Trading was of unusual volume for the midday session. It was remarkable for breadth as well. Another million-share day was forecast during the morning. Up to noon transactions totalled more than 53,000 shares.

Call money loaned at 5¼ per cent. on mixed collaterals and 6 per cent. on industrials.

It is reported that there has been heavy buying of American International Corporation by Boston interests. Another report is the authorization and that New York interests are buying in rivalry.

Steels improved in the afternoon.

GAINS IN THE AFTERNOON.

Gains in he afternoon included U. S. Steel 1 at 99½; Republic Iron and Steel 1¼ at 83¾; Bethlehem B 2¼ at 72¼; Kelly Springfield 2 at 157; International Corporation 5¼ at 59¾; U. S. Rubber 4¾ at 89¼; Kelly-Springfield 4¾ at 157¾; General Motors 1¾ at 174; American Agricultural 2¼ at 109¾; Texas Co. 2¾ at 179; Marine preferred 1¾ at 114; Atlantic Gulf 1¾ at 123¾; U. S. Food Products 2¾ at 62¾; Westinghouse 1¾ at 47¾; Royal Dutch (old) 1¾ at 96 and (new) 1¾ at 94¾.

PRICES HIGH AT NOON.

The market was still strong at noon, after opening with gains and continuing to move upward during the morning. Highest prices were attained by some issues in the second hour. The market was active as well as strong. It was largely made by specialties, but some of the old standard leaders were quiet and either showed fractional gains or small losses. United States Steel shared a shade lower, recovered and moved up and down within a half point during the forenoon. There was not much business in rails or coppers, and the latter were inactive. Oils were strong and active. Shipping issues advanced substantially.

American International Corporation was a feature, climbing seven points before noon. It had then ascended nearly seventeen points in two days.

Kelly-Springfield reported big earnings. Among issues to sell at their highest for this year to date were Tennessee Copper, Bethlehem B, Kelly-Springfield, American Linseed Oil and American Cotton Oil. Studebaker was listed on the New York exchange as U. S. Food Products. It opened a point higher and then rose another point.

BOSTON QUIET AND IRREGULAR.

Trading was quiet on the local exchange all the morning, and while the list was somewhat irregular as to price changes more issues declined than advanced. The market had a firm tone at the start. Among the active issues were Utah Copper, United Shoe and Swift & Co. Calumet & Arizona was a prominent copper advancer for three points during the morning. Punta Alegre was a strong specialty. Business in mining shares was limited. Interest in Boston Elevated had about subsided.

Afternoon gains in this market included Stewart 1/8, at 29; United Fruit 1/8, at 123½; Calumet & Arizona 2¾, at 81½; Alloues ¼, at 29½, and United Shoe ¼, at 51¾. Among declines were Old Dominion ¼, at 35½; Punta Alegre Sugar ½, at 53, and North Butte ⅛, at 23¾. Boston Elevated was unchanger at 77.

PEACE HOPES HELPED MARKET.

Price improvement in stocks at the beginning of trading in New York was the result of the general impression that peace conditions in Paris are about to end, and a peace treaty signed. The feeling for a formal ending of the war that has distracted and ravaged the world for five years seems to overrirde everything else. Reports from Paris that there is a crisis in the conference and this country may withdraw either had no influence or were construed arrogantly as a bull factor. Traders who have been expecting a decline because of the unsettled state of the steel industry and other domestic influences, not to speak of rumors that there is a deadlock in the peace conference, sustained a severe setback.

WALL STREET BUYING STOCKS.

It may be that high financial interests dubbed as "Wall Street" are getting more complete and accurate information as to how matters really stand in Paris than a public dependent upon press dispatches, even if the latter are not filtered through a censorship. Wall Street is said to be buying stocks upon declines and to be looking ahead in optimism. The public, which is usually governed more by instinct than reason, is in a mood for speculation in spite of an abnormal situation. The decline in the steel industry and other domestic influences, not to speak of rumors that there is a deadlock in the peace conference, sustained a severe setback.

THOUSANDS OF FISH ORDERS POUR IN

Score of Vessels Kept Busy Supplying Demands of Cost-Price Stores

Thousands of orders for finnan haddie and fine salt codfish poured into the office of Alden A. Mills, the fish expert, today, and the services of a large corps of men were required to fill them. Through the agency of the Boston American fresh, salt and smoked fish at cost are now being shipped to every section of New England.

The ten Boston American fish stores are doing such tremendous business that Mr. Mills' fleet of a score of vessels are making special trips to port to land the fish to supply the demand. Within a few days Mr. Mills will have one of the biggest beam trawlers yet seen in this port in commission, and this, with the other vessels now under way, will be able to supply any demands made by the thousands of New Englanders who intend to eat fish after Lent in order to bring down the price of meats.

WILL SUPPLY ALL DEMANDS.

The "Alden A. Mills," a brand new steam trawler, which will be able to produce hundreds of pounds of fish per week, will be launched shortly at Boothbay Harbor, Me. In the meantime Mr. Mills is able to take care of any orders which come to his office, and will see that the Boston American Fish Stores do not lack fish.

The Boston American Fish Stores in Greater Boston are still offering fine frozen fish at 5 cents a pound, that representing the actual cost price. In places further than ten miles from Boston the price is 6 cents, and when sent by express freshly caught haddock and cod cost 7 cents, finnan haddie 19 cents and salt codfish 15 cents. Boneless codfish costs 20 cents per pound. When sent by express the purchaser pays the express charge and nothing less than twenty pounds is sent of freshly caught fish, while the packages of salt fish and of finnan haddie weigh thirty pounds each.

PLAN 10-POUND BOXES.

Mr. Mills is making arrangements to send ten pounds of salt codfish by express, and will make an announcement to this effect within a day or two. In the meantime send your or-

A Game in Which America Has Nothing to Win, Much to Lose

The New York Sun asserts that Clemenceau's desire to annex the German Saar Valley is prompted only by destruction of French coal industries in the Lens district.

Both Lloyd George and President Wilson are strongly opposed to Clemenceau's demand, and it is probable that both know what the Sun either does not know or has forgotten, which is that the secret treaty negotiated between France and the Czar long before 1914 provided, in case France and Russia defeated Germany in the war for which France and Russia and Germany and Austria were all preparing, that France should annex the Saar Valley and other German territory down to the Rhine.

The hope of acquiring the German coal regions was a strong factor in the French alliance with Russia ten years before the Germans had approached Lens, and as both England and the United States are agreed that the old system of forcible annexations after victory must be done away, if Europe is ever to have peace, Premier George and President Wilson are right in opposing the French design of carrying out the terms of the secret treaty made by the French Government with the vanished Czar for the partition of Germany and Austria.

The Czar's share of spoil, if the French and Russian alliance had won against the Triple Alliance, was to have been Galicia—a fate which that populous and fertile province most happily escaped.

We suppose that no other set of men, otherwise intelligent enough, are so entirely ignorant of the underflows and cross-currents of European diplomacy and intrigue during the decades preceding 1914 as are the writers for our American press, and this is doubtless one of the reasons why they discuss the present play of intrigue and ambition and self-interest at Paris with so little understanding either of French and British and Italian purposes or of the diplomatic traps which are being set for our feet.

We Americans are neither fitted by temperament, ideals, interests nor training to play the game of European diplomacy, war and grab, and the sooner we get out of it, and get wholly out of it, the better it will be for us and for our children.

Jews Not Getting Their Due at the Peace Conference

Israel Zangwill agrees with the American that the League of Nations as now proposed puts too much trust in a small body of trustees who are to act for all the nations of the world, and too little trust in the people, who should decide their own fates.

Since England, France, Italy, Japan and President Wilson have all approved the establishment in Palestine of a "Jewish national home," it follows that there must be a Jewish nation.

Yet at the Peace Conference the great people whose prophets more than twenty-five centuries ago preached the League of Nations is denied any voice in the shaping thereof, although through Emir Feisul is accorded to the Jews' Arab neighbors in Palestine that which is not refused even to the black republics of Hayti and Liberia.

Mr. Zangwill well says that the whole proceeding is characteristic of humanity's tragic inconsistencies.

The appointment of a trustee power, whether Britain, France or America, would seem superfluous to the new Jewish nation, for the Jews can at once set up all the machinery of government and from their rich human resources in every country provide a better administration, a greater wealth, both of brains and money, than are likely to be supplied by any trustee power for that purpose.

We have no doubt that even the former enemy Jews will help to rebuild Palestine, a derelict country whose redemption needs such vast financial and labor forces that it can only pay a people with intense zeal for the past and ideal faith in the object.

How Experiment at Mount Vernon, N. Y., Will Work

The Mount Vernon, N. Y., Common Council has agreed to let the Westchester Electric Railway charge zone fares for two years to come.

Admittedly this is to be an experiment. But we can tell the Mount Vernon folks just what will happen—and we hope some of them will keep this copy of the American until the two years of experiment have gone and then see whether we made the right forecast.

To begin with, Mount Vernon folks will see the values of all real property in the outlying zones remain stationary for a little while and then begin to fall.

They will also see the values of all real property in the cheap-fare zones increase. These values will increase more rapidly than they should, and the pressure of increased rentals will tend to make the cost of living higher, while the net income of the transportation company and the revenues of the municipality will not increase as much as they would have under the normal condition of equal fares.

The shifting of real estate values and rental values will cause costly disturbances of business, which will become more and more noticeable.

Many people will suffer losses, and nobody, in the long run, will get any gain except the minority who own real estate in the territory favored by the cheapest fare.

We state these things as facts.

The economic law upon which this forecast is based is not to be found in any of the numerous works upon transportation and has never been perceived at all by our statesmen. But you can depend upon it that the law exists and that it works, in spite of any and all foolish legislation.

It will work in Mount Vernon exactly as we say it will. See if it doesn't.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

TOO LATE

THE day the armistice was signed
And guns and cannon ceased their drumming
We penned a roundelay designed
To tell the world that peace was coming.
"Cheer up," we sang, "the war is done;
Tune pipes and timbrels, and be merry,
A little wrangling must be done,
But peace is sure by January."

TO celebrate the glad New Year
Once more as gentle Peace's herald,
A song of hopefulness and cheer
To all who cared to list we caroled.
"Hurrah for peace"—so rang our song.
"Be joyful, buoyant, happy hearted;
Remember peace will be along
Ere February has departed."

BUT when the ides of March had come
And peace was still somewhat belated,
We laid aside the throbbing drum
And rather dubiously stated:
"We know that peace is overdue,
But still we breathlessly await it,
And eagerly we ask that you
Will stick around to celebrate it."

TODAY, alas, we sing no more;
Peace still may toward us be proceeding,
But all we've caroled heretofore
We're prone to fear has been misleading.
We'd like to hail it when it comes,
To sing a measure, true and steady,
And march with the victorious drums,
But we are forty-two, already!

Ye TOWN GOSSIP

By K. C. B.

KENNETH M. Goode.

EDITOR HEARST'S Magazine.

MY DEAR Ken.

IN HEARST'S for April.

YOU STARTED a story.

BY ARTHUR Somers Roche.

AND IT'S a mystery story.

AND THERE are crimes committed.

AND MY wife has read it.

AND SHE had me read it.

AND EVER since then.

SHE KEEPS arguing with me.

ABOUT WHOEVER it was.

THAT COMMITTED the crime.

AND IT'S the second time.

THAT ARTHUR Somers Roche.

HAS DISTURBED our household.

AND THE last time.

WE WERE staying.

AT THE Touraine Hotel.

AND IT was a murder story.

IN ONE of the magazines.

AND WE both read it.

AND THE installment ended.

AT A most exciting place.

AND JUST at the moment.

THEY WERE going to catch the murderer.

AND I was so sore.

I COULD have et the magazine.

AND MY wife and I.

WE TRIED to figure it out.

AND WE couldn't agree.

AND I went downstairs.

TO THE telegraph office.

IN THE hotel lobby.

AND WROTE out a telegram.

TO ARTHUR Somers Roche.

AT THE Majestic Hotel.

IN NEW York city.

AND SAID:

"CAN'T WAIT until next month.

"MUST KNOW at once.

"WHO MURDERED the judge,"

AND ARTHUR wired back:

"THAT'S WHAT I had to do."

AND TWO weeks later.

I SAW him in New York

AND THEN he told me

THAT HE wrote the whole story.

EXCEPT THE last chapter.

WITHOUT HAVING any idea.

WHO COMMITTED the murder,

AND IT nearly drove him crazy.

TRYING TO figure it out.

IN TIME for publication.

AND I'M writing you now.

JUST TO give you warning.

ABOUT THE way Arthur works.

AND I know him very well.

AND HE'S careless with his auto.

AND IF I were you.

I'D MAKE him tell me right away.

THE NAME of the criminal.

IN THE story you're running.

BECAUSE if you don't.

SOMETHING MIGHT happen.

AND NOBODY'D ever know.

AND IF you can find out.

I WISH you'd slip it to me.

BECAUSE I have a chance.

TO MAKE a bet with my wife.

YOU'D THINK she wrote the story.

THE WAY she talks.

I THANK you.

'CAGED BIRDS' WHO GROW RESTLESS AT HOME

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

"MY Dear Mrs. Woodrow:

Please, can you help me or tell me what is wrong?

"I am a woman twenty-six years old, have been married since I was sixteen, and have a child eight years old.

"I have a very comfortable home and a husband that I know is the best in the world. I have many blessings—and yet, in spite of them all, I am discontented.

"I feel so useless, and my life is so monotonous and empty; I feel stifled. I know I should be satisfied and contented, but the more I try the more restless and unhappy I seem to get.

"I want so much to be free and to get out in the world to sink or swim for myself; but I have the child to think of, and it doesn't seem fair or right to do so. I feel like a caged bird. Everywhere I turn I find bars pushing me back.

"I know every one in this world has their own problem to solve, but sometimes others can help us. Must I solve mine alone, or can you aid me? Is it my duty to stay where I am, or give up my home and be free, as I long to be? Please, Mrs. Woodrow, advise me if you can."

Let us look at the question from all sides.

Facing Cold Facts

Suppose, for instance, like Nora in "The Doll's House," you walk out and shut the door behind you? There you are; free. Now what are you going to do with that freedom? You are out in the big world, which is quite indifferent to the fact of your either sinking or swimming. The big world asks but one thing—results.

You may have friends who are able to help you start some undertaking; but "pull" only goes so far. At the last, you've got to stand on your own merits.

It would be very humiliating, you know, to "fliv" in your enterprise, and have to crawl back and knock on the door you have closed. Your husband and child would by that time have adapted themselves to new conditions, and have learned to do very nicely without you.

It is life you are living, my dear, not melodrama.

Do you know what is the matter with you? You are track sore. That is an expression used to describe the moods and tantrums of a race horse when it gets tired pounding around and around the track. Its trainers then give it change and rest—turn it out on pasture—until it gets back into form.

Cure of Boredom

Your letter shows that you have time to burn. Occupy it. Ask yourself what you really want to be or do. Perhaps you have romantic dreams of the stage, or of becoming a motion picture star? You are not young enough. Perhaps your inclination leans toward business? That would require actual business ability and a great deal of training.

But even if you have decided what your interest will be—and you need one—work at it, drudge at it, acquire proficiency. You will thus discover many things about yourself—whether you have the capacity for genuine concentration, whether you have the quality of perseverance, whether you really prefer to be "free."

Why not make a long visit and by a change of scene get a truer perspective on your life.

Put Soldiers to Work

Editor Boston American:

MARRY ON BROADWAY —REPENT AT HOME

"I was her husband in name only," is the plaint of Lillian Lorraine's unhappy husband. He gives an illuminating picture of the topsy-turvy matrimonial life of a man who marries a Broadway footlight idol. Can such marriages end otherwise than in unhappiness? He thinks not. All about it in the next

"I Want to Be a Christian" "Too Late," Says Japan Regulate Your Clubbing A Greater Canada

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1919)

Korea, swallowed by the Japanese, now announces that she wants to be free and a Christian nation. She says she doesn't want to be an autocratic heathen native. It is as though you heard coming from the inside of a cat the words, "I want to be a Christian canary; let me out." The cat would probably say that it was too late. That also is what Japan will say.

The Koreans hope that Christian Europe will take an interest in this suggestion. For, they say, they would be the first independent Christian country in Asia.

Unfortunately for the Koreans, Japan, which is not Christian, is one of the Allies, and in the present distribution and re-arrangement of the world, the claims and wishes of the victors, not religious questions, are being considered.

Every great fight in the world, started by people at the top, ends by helping people at the bottom.

Denmark was not in the fight, but her great land estates are to be cut up and the peasants encouraged to own the land on which they work, as peasants do in Sweden and in France. This is government action in Denmark.

In England, the big land owners are wisely selling their holdings, thirty thousands acres and more at a time, without waiting for the government to compel it.

When you look at the map of this continent, glancing above the north line of the United States, you are much impressed by the size of our neighbor Canada—more health to her.

She is now considering enlarging her holdings toward the North Pole by buying Greenland from Denmark, quite a big piece of property—bigger than our Alaska.

This MIGHT raise an interesting Monroe Doctrine question. Under the Monroe Doctrine European nations are supposed not to add to their possessions on this continent. Canada belongs to England and is to that extent European.

That would be a delicate question for the brand new League of Nations to decide. Canada would say, "I am buying this as part of America, not as part of Great Britain." The United States would say, "Yes, but you are adding just that much to what Great Britain, a European nation, OWNS and CONTROLS on the North American continent."

And when it came to deciding in the League of Nations, Great Britain would have six votes, and the United States one vote, which way do you think it would be decided?

New York city is discussing a school for printing, to teach anybody to be a printer. This would seem an excellent thing to leave alone. The printers' union can continue to fill the ranks by educating apprentices, and it is not desirable to create in any branch of work an artificial over-supply of skilled labor, or half skilled. Printers should interest themselves in this proposition, of which the mainspring is probably the desire of employers to pay lower wages.

How to create Bolshevism and how NOT to create Bolshevism, are illustrated respectively by the city of Paris, across the ocean, and in the city of Lawrence, in Massachusetts.

In France, when the war began, Jaures, a man with many friends, was murdered by a fanatic. Recently the man was acquitted. Last Sunday one hundred thousand friends of Jaures paraded the streets of Paris and there were ugly mutterings, and some talk that would have put a dozen men in jail in this country.

But you read that the French government had only detectives in plain clothes, ordered not to interfere unless absolutely compelled to do so. And the hundred thousand friends of Jaures were permitted to let off steam in talk, and the incident is over.

A few energetic clubbings and shootings might easily have changed the crowd of one hundred thousand into a revolutionary mob of a million.

In Lawrence, Massachusetts, where there are strikes and rioting, "policemen, finding their clubs ineffective, use their revolvers." It may have been necessary, probably was. But before this happened men guilty of no violence had been clubbed, knocked down, taken to prison, threatened and beaten again and called "Bolshevist" without the formality of any trial or conviction.

This statement is not reproduced from any radical or socialist newspaper. It is printed and signed by the name of a reliable woman in a newspaper that belongs to Mr. Thomas Lamont, member in the firm of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., which is not a Bolshevik concern.

There will be no Bolshevism here, because the United States is at least ninety-nine to one hundred against it. There may be serious, disagreeable discontent unless the United States can learn some lessons from France, England and other countries that from hard experience have learned how to handle men out of work. Clubbing and shooting should be regulated very carefully.
